THE PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT.

Hayes Endorsed by all Parts of the Union.

Packard Tells His Little Story.

The Union League Endorse the President.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Union League club met to-night, John Jay presiding, Gov. Marshall Jewell, Peter Cooper and Judge Peabody on the platform. Resolutions were passed that the Republican party, after commanding great majorities in the States, in Congress, and in the national canvass, finds itself now in power only by a bal ince of a single electoral vote and confronted by a possible majority of the people and by an actual majority of the House of Representatives. Our supremacy in the future will depend not on the want of merit in our adversaries, not on our noble achievements in the past, but on the real character and doings of the incoming administration. It has been asserted the diminution in our prestige and majori ies is due to infidelity to our pledges, to putting unworthy men in office, and surrendering to party dictation; therefore,

Resolved, That greater strength and stability will be secured by absolute fidelity to the pledge to maintain sound principles, the rights, interests and honor of the whole people, that in President Hayes' letter of acceptance these principles were foreshadowed, and in his inaugural address, fidelity to public pledges is recognized as well as the statesmanlike comprehension of the conditions upon which the pacification of the States, prosperity of business, reform in the civil service and honor of the nation can be secured, and so long as his administration is faithful to these principles it will receive the support of this club; that in his nominations for the cabinet we recognize President Hayes' good faith to ever our principles and a desire to pacify discordant elements, and bring all parties of the Union into harmony, and the nominations ought to be at once confirmed.

Colorado Endorses.

DENVER, March 8.—The cabinet chosen by President Hayes gives general satisfaction here.

The Tribune says President Hayes' cabinet selections cannot fail to give very general satisfaction, as nearly universal satisfaction in fact as can in this world of conflicting interests, feeling and purpose, in the select on of seven officials from over forty million of people inhabiting an almost limitless extent of territory, in ability, in character and in moral fitness the appointmen s are really above criticism.

The News says one thing will be observed and approved by every good citizen, and that is the fact that every one of the seven names sent to the Senate yesterday are the names of men eminent both in public and private life. For honor and uprightness their characters are unimpeachable; they stand in the foremost rank of good citizens. There is not an office seeker among them, and one of them has not held an office for 25 years. Their selection was an earnest of Mr. Hayes' desire to pacify the political atmosphere.

The Merchants of St. Louis Resolve.

ST. LOUIS, March 9.—The following resolutions were adopted to-day by the merchants and business men of this city:

Resolved, The sentiments enunciated by President Hayes' inaugural address and foreshadowed in the appointments of the cabinet, indicates a desire and determination to foster a conciliatory and fraternal feeling throughout the Union by such an administrative course therefore be it

Resolved, That as representatives of the business interests of St. Louis we hereby heartily approve of the just and conservative course thus far mapped out by President Hayes, and that our Senators and Congressmen be urged to rise above all party feeling, as patriotism alone should govern their actions.

Mass Meeting to Ratify.

CHICAGO, March 9.—A call is issued to-day for a non-political mass meeting on Monday evening to endorse the policy and course of the President in Southern affairs and cabinet appointments.

Commission Signed.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Senator Sherman's commission as Secretary of the Treasury, was signed this afternoon.

A Social Call.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Mr. Schurz was at the Executive Mansion this evening in consultation with the President. The call was more social than official. Assurance is given to-night that the President has no idea whatever of making any change in the list of nominations. The troops from the South is likely to rest for the present, as there is no disposition on the part of the President to make any more hastily. There is nothing significant in the fact that no one except Sherman of the cabinet nominees were acted upon by the Senate to-day, Sherman having been chairman of the finance committee it would be an act of discourtesy to have his name left out entirely in making the committees or announcing his succession on the finance committee before they confirmed his nomination as Secretary of the Treasury; consequently the Senate confirmed him.

Brilliant Reception.

President Hayes to-night officially received officers of the army, navy and marine corps. The event was one of the most brilliant that has ever animated the parlors of the Executive Mansion. Nearly every officer of the army, navy, and marine corps stationed here, and many others, were present. Gen. Sherman headed the army, Admiral Porter the navy, and the marine corps was presided over by Col. Heywood. The reception lasted until nearly 10 o'clock.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, March 8—Ex-Prest. Grant's cabinet met with President Hayes to-day. The treasury was represented by Conant, Secretary Sherman not yet having qualified.

A delegation of colored men from South Carolina, headed by Represen ative Rainey, called upon the President to-day. They will submit suggestions this afternoon.

Believes Packard the Legal Governor.

WASHINGTON, March 9—The Senate had only fifteen minutes' open session to-day. In the executive session there was a short discussion. It was thought McCrary and Thompson would be confirmed, but there was too much pressure for delay.

The chances are against Schurz' confirmation.

The Louisiana excitement is abating, and it is asserted President Hayes says he believes Packard to be the legal governor of Louisiana, and hopes he can sustain himself.

Conkling and Blaine.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Times' Washington special says: The purpose of Conkling in making his speech is regarded as a covert attack on Blaine. He did not once refer directly to Blaine, but its purpose was to expose the incompetency of that Senator to take charge of a question of so much magnitude, and so important in its results to the peace of the country. Blaine sat in his seat most of the time, with his head resting upon his hand, appearing to be in deep thought.

All the claimants for seats in the Senate are now disposed of, except two in Louisiana and one in South Carolina.

Blaine, in an attempt to lead the Senate in the contested election cases, has met with a kind of success not pleasing to the friends of Kellogg, whom he championed. It was clear Kellogg would need all the votes that could possibly be secured to obtain admission without reference to the committee, or perhaps even with the report of the committee. Morton intended, as chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, to insist he objections be disposed of in the order in which they were made. This would have placed Kellogg's case before all others. Blaine seized upon the management of the case, and has so far failed of his purpose, that Kellogg is sent to the committee and the Democratic Senators who were objected to have all been sworn in. Now there is but five Republican majority left, and if that majority is to be held together to admit Kellogg, some other Senator than Blaine must take the management.

What the Committee Did with the Cabinet Nominations.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The Times' Washington special says: Schurz was favorably passed in the finance committee with only one dissenting voice—that of Jones of Nevada, who is either acting with his ardent friend, Conkling, or else dislikes Schurz' views on the bonanza silver question.

Evarts was opposed in the committee on foreign relations by three Senators, reported to be Cameron, Hamlin and Conkling. A charge is made against him that while he was counsel for the government at the Geneva arbitration, he was also attorney for some marine insurance companies. If being attorney for insurance companies controlled his action before that tribunal, it must have been to render him more active in securing a large award. That was the service the United States desired of him. Hamlin may withdraw his opposition to Evarts, because he believes Blaine has determined to confine himself to the attempt to defeat the confirmation of Key. Whatever policy Blaine concludes to pursue will, of course, be followed by Hamlin. Key will be favorably reported by a majority of the committee on postoffices and postroads, of which Hamlin is chairman. The only nomination that has fallen into a real hornets' nest of opposition is that of Evarts.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says that the feeling against the cabinet appointments gradually subsides, and now only a few disappointed office seekers object to them. The President's manner impresses all who call with his force of character and earnestness, and shows them he has studied the questions on which he is acting until he has become master. Those who seek to advise find in his modest words a wisdom deeper than their own, and confess it freely. Admiration for him is growing. He receives hundreds of approving letters from North and South.

Blaine's Mistake.

Blaine has clearly made a great mistake. The country, so far as sentiment can be judged at Washington, sustains Hayes and repudiates, as the Senate will, the leadership of Blaine. Blaine has anxiously watched the newspapers, and, warned by the universal expression of Republican journals from all parts of the country, he can do nothing but make as good a stand as possible against the confirmation alone of Key. The probability now is he will be beaten in that restricted contest, and if so, he may as well retire to a back seat in politics. His friends are scared and ready to desert his following, which is much smaller than he imagines.

No Axes to Grind.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Gen. Butler called on the President to-day and told him he should support the administration and had no axes to grind.

Waited on the President.

The South Carolina colored delegation, consisting of Representatives Rainey, Cain, Small, Waite, and Supreme Court Justice Cordozo, Treasurer Maxwell and others waited on President Hayes to-day. The President spoke with perfect frankness, stating he desired to remove the antagonism existing between the races, especially politically, so that colored men and Republicans might not need the protection of the army. He stated the use of military force in civil affairs was repugnant to the genius of American institutions, and should be dispensed with if possible. He, however, recognized the necessity of protection at present until that feeling of respect for the rights of political opponents should be entertained by the Democrats of the South. The President stated with regard to the difficulties at present existing in South Carolina, concerning which the delegation expressed great anxiety, he proposed to preserve the status quo left by his predecessor, and examine the condition of affairs carefully and deliberately before he acted. The delegation then withdrew, well satisfied with the interview.

There will be no Break.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says there need be no longer any fear that a break-up will occur in the Republican ranks. Blaine's speeches in the Senate, he says in an interview, have been misunderstood if they have been taken to mean that he will oppose the President's policy. He thinks it entitled to a trial, and if it succeeds none will more fully or gratefully acknowledge its wisdom than he; but he don't believe Hayes can recognize Nicholls and over turn Chamberlain without confessing he sits in the White House upon fraudulent pretension. His reference to the South Carolina matter the other day was simply to expose to the country the machinations of politicians who are trying to barter away all the hold the Republican party has in the South, and he meant nothing more. Hayes repudiated these attempts at bargaining, and he does not think they will be repeated.

Panic of Bummers.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Tribune's Washington special says: There is a general panic among minor line of government employees at the prospect of Hayes' Cabinet, who will it is expected, take hold of various departments Monday, and institute many reforms. Montgomery Blair recommends that the Democrats join the President in his self-reliant attitude. Hayes has made many government employees happy by the statement that there would be no haste in changing the personnel of the departments.

Collector of Port.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The Herald's New Orleans special says: It is reported this evening upon good authority that Hayes telegraphed to Packard to-day offering him the collectorship of that port provided he would "keep down and out." Packard replied he would be governor or nothing.

Packard's Telegram Pronounced Untrue.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The following was received by Senator Bayard to-day, and will probably be laid before the Senate when the Louisiana question comes up for further debate:

SHREVEPORT, March 9.

Packard's dispatch yesterday to Senator Blaine, that in every parish outside of New Orleans, except what he terms the five bull dosed parishes, his government is recognized by all except a few Nicholls officials, is utterly untrue. The people of this parish and surrounding parishes spurn Packard's pretensions, and render a hearty allegiance to Governor Nicholls. The Republican police jury of this parish has by formal resolutions recognized the Nicholls government. Nathan Gregg, President of the Shreveport Cotton Exchange, Samuel C. Head, President of the police jury of Caddo parish, N. C. Blanchard, President of the Democratic committee of Caddo parish, B. M. Johnson, banker.

Packard Writes a Letter.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.—Packard to day addresses to the editor of the Cincinnati Commercial the following:

Sir: In an editorial in the Commercial of the 9th, you state that the act of the commission has no bearing whatever upon the legitimacy of the Packard government, unless it can be proved that as a matter of fact more votes were cast for Packard than for the Republican electors who were certified by the returning board. The certified vote for electors was as follows: F. W. Kellogg, 75,185; J. H. Burch, 75,127; Peter Joseph, 74,013; L. A. Sheldon, 74,007; Morris Marks, 74,418; A. B. Levissee, 74,001; C. H. Brewster, 74,017; Oscar Jaffroin, 74,779. My vote for Governor, as certified by the returning board, laid by the Secretary of State before the general assembly, and counted by that body, was 73,624 votes; as opened before the board and certified by the Democratic state central committee, as follows:

W. P. Kellogg, 77,181; J. H. Burch, 77,162; Peter Joseph, 74,013; L. A. Sheldon, 74,003; Morris Marks, 74,010; A. B. Levissee, 75,225; C. H. Brewster, 75,497. Oscar Jaffroin, 75,614, and for Governor as follows: Stephen B. Packard, 76,477. This proves I received 621 more votes than the lowest elector, as returned by the returning board, and 1,675 more votes than the lowest elector as certified by the Democratic committee. The general assembly had more that a quorum of returned members in both houses when the vote for me was canvassed and declared according to constitutional requirements on the 2d of January, and before the expiration of Gov. Kellogg's term. This statement is made to correct the erroneous impression which appears to prevail with some Northern newspapers that I ran behind the Republican electoral ticket. If shotguns and violence are to determine the legitimacy of government, what would have been the effect had Watterson's 100,000 Kentuckians appeared in Washington on March 4th to support and inaugurate Tilden had he been a claimant encouraged by a statement that the general government should not interfere? Very respectfully, etc.

S. B. PACKARD.

PANIC IN A CHURCH.

Frightened Women Crushed and Trampled to Death.

A Thrilling Description.

Frightful Scene in a Church.

NEW YORK, March 8.—There was a panic in the church of St. Francis Xavier, Sixteenth street, near Sixth avenue, to-night, caused by a woman fainting and cries of fire; a rush of women from one of the galleries was made, and in the tumult which ensued, six women and one boy were trampled under foot and killed. The audience was composed entirely of women at d children, it being women week in lent. The number of persons injured could not be ascertained. Father Langtacke was preaching on hell and the terrors of the damned, and as the preacher was picturing the torments of purgatory a young woman in the corner gallery, overcome by her feelings, fainted and gave utterance to a hysterical scream, start ing the worshippers and causing them to spring to their feet. The next moment some reckless person cried fire, and this gave rise to the panic. Father Langtacke implored the people to keep their seats, as there was no cause for alarm. Father Merrick, the pastor, hearing the screams and rushed into the sanctuary. He called upon the congregation to keep their seats, as there was no fire. The congregation was dismissed and the organ began to play. The women in the main body of the church and gallery passed out in an orderly manner, but the people occupying that portion of the gallery where the commotion had begun and centered, rushed toward the exit from the gallery, and, almost crazed with fear, pushed and fought their way into the narrow stairway leading to Sixteenth street. The stairway is but four feet wide, and within three or four steps of the bottom makes a sharp turn, before it reached the vestibule. The crowd of maddened women rushed down the stairs, and would probably all have reached the street in safety, but at the bend in the stairway an aged and very stout woman fell headlong down the stairs. Before she could regain her feet the frantic crowd pressed on toward the vestibule and came upon the prostrate form, and those in the foremost ranks fell upon her. In a moment the passage way was choked, and a scene of the wildest confusion and most intense excitement ensued. The crowd in the rear pressed on with the most fierce life force, and nothing could be done to stop their advance. The crazed women fought their way toward the choked-up stairway, trampling upon those who had fallen in front and crushing the life out of them. They screamed and fought like maniacs, and every effort to hold them back, so that the stairway could be cleared, was of no avail. Father Wyte and several other priests who were in the church parlors at the time the panic occurred, rushed round to the front of the church, and, assisted by patrolmen, by main force dragged out some of the women who were lying on the stairs. A number of women were then got out alive and only slightly injured. In the struggle for life they were almost denuded of their clothing. As the priests and police, aided by a number of citizens, made their way up best as they could, they found lying on the steps four other women and a small boy. These were taken out to the open air, but life was extinct. One woman, Ann Forbes, was brought out alive and apparently not much injured. She waited, with the assistance of the police, to a drug store on Sixteenth avenue, near Sixteenth street, where she expired in a few moments. The bodies of the dead were identified, as follows: Mary Casey, of 229 West Eighteenth street; Ann Spencer and Michael Spencer, of 89 Ninth avenue; Mary Coughlan, 202 West Twenty-fifth street; Eliza Masterson, 408 Seventh avenue, and Ann Forbes, 61 West Nineteenth street.

Requiem Mass.

NEW YORK, March 9.—This morning in the St. Francis Xavier church, where the calamity of last night happened, a solemn requiem mass was offered for the dead, and prayers said for the speedy recovery of the wounded.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

A New Minister of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 9.—Prince Gortschakoff will soon hand over the direction of foreign affairs to Privy Councelor Valuyeff or General Ignatieff. It is authoritatively stated that the latter in conversation with foreign statesmen will demonstrate Russia's aims are not of securing a separate Eastern policy by obtaining declarations from the powers, but that it is the Porte's duty to execute the conference programme, and unless the Porte fulfills that duty any European powers will be at liberty to demand its fulfillment.

Reforms of the Turkish Empire.

CONSTANTINOPLE March 9.—The Turkish minister of foreign affairs has sent the following dispatch to the Ottoman ambassador at London. The reforms proposed by the conference and accepted by the imperial government are already being applied. They embrace two classes, viz.: reforms resulting from organic laws, which will be submitted to the Parliament, and reforms immediately applicable, which are as follows: Reorganization of the gendarmerie, the scheme for which has been elaborated and handed to Col. Baker for his consideration; division of the communes into cantons, which will be done as soon as the provincial authorities can assemble and send to Constantinople the information for which they have been asked in regard to the distribution of the corps of gendarmerie, composed of Mussulmen and Christians, a system which already exists in several parts of the empire; the admission of Mussulmen subjects to military schools, which are authorized and decreed by the august master; prohibition of the migration of Circassians en masse into Roumania, and the non-employment of the regular troops except when absolutely necessary; interdiction against carrying arms without special authority for individuals implicated in recent events at Philippopolis; formation of a special commission to be dispatched to the villayetts of Bosnia and the Danube, and Adrianople; sanction of the liberty of public worship; all legislation upon religious matters to come under the jurisdiction of patriarchs; remission of arrears of taxes due to January 1st, 1877, in the provinces that have suffered; maintenance of the right to property already acquired by Christians in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

What Roumania Will do.

Rio the and Occident.

SACRAMENTO March 9.—The attendance is very large and pools increasing. Both horses are on the track, looking fine. Judges: C. F. Reed, Yolo; Alfred Ellis and E. J. Weeks, of San Francisco. Timers: Henry Seales and J. H. McAllister, of San Francisco, and Edgar Mills, of Sacramento. Pools sell rapidly at this rate: Bodine $100, 15, 180, 100 110 to Occident $130, 125, 180, 80 and 90. Weather cool and cloudy.

Bodine wins first heat in 2:24½, and second heat in 2:23¼.

Bodine Wins.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—The race at Sacramento to-day between Occident and Bodine disappointed those who expected fast time. The track was in good condition, weather cloudy, cold and threatening rain. Both horses appeared in good form, and about 3,000 people were in attendance. Before the race pools sold briskly. Bodine was the favorite slightly at first, and later at about two to one. Occident drew the pole. At 2:20 P. M. they got off on the third score. Occident broke at the first turn, falling behind fully 100 yards, but closed up half of the distance at the first mark, where he broke again, but recovered quickly. The first quarter was made in 37 seconds, the half 1:11, and the three-fourth in 1:46. On the homestretch, Occident, who had been gaining since passing the half mile, closed up splendidly and passed an even position, but just reaching the score Bodine got ahead, winning by a neck in 2:24. Between heats the betting was spirited at nearly three to one on Bodine. A good start was had in the second heat, Bodine leading slightly to the 8th post; he then led by a length to the quarter pole, time 36½; made the half in 1:10. On the turn Occident pulled up some and went on Bodine's wheel to the three quarter post; Occident then pulled away in it, but, as before, when near the score Bodine passed ahead and won by a length—time 2:23¼. Bodine now sold seven to one in the pools. The third heat was a repetition of the second, Bodine winning in 2:25.

Going Behind the Returning Boards in Personal History.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—Regarding Blacklock, the absconding president of the Gulf of California Oyster Canning Co., it has been ascertained he is one of the three brothers named Hurley, who some years ago operated extensively in Chicago. St. Louis and Denver, as confidence men, Blacklock being the youngest of the trio. The gang was broken up in Denver by the lynching of one of the members. The brothers have gone by the aliases McCaw, Bennett and Blacklock. Wm. Salter Manning, secretary of the oyster company, has been heretofore engaged in the practice of medicine at Los Angeles, and Pureglove has been a resident of this city for many years. So far as known, both the latter have heretofore been reputable citizens. Pedro Gascia, director, and Don Ramon, Joe Gonzales, vice president of the company, prove to be myths.

That List.

The Examiner will publish an article this afternoon with reference to the much talked of list of fraudulent voters, claiming that the names of prominent citizens published in the list were not contained in the original list made out under the direction of the finance committee, but have since been interpolated, by parties with the view of ringing the work of the committee into contempt, as careless and unreliable and in discrediting the whole investigation. It is not known yet whether the interpolation will be charged to any one by name, but it is understood the question is being worked up with a view of fixing the responsibility where it is alleged to belong. The list is still the talk of the town, and well known names are being continually picked out of it.

A Submarine Volcano.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The Honolulu Gazette of February 28th, contains the account of a remarkable submarine volcanic outbreak in Kealakeakua Bay, near the entrance to the harbor. The natives report that the eruption occurred at 2 o'clock on the morning of the 24th, appearing like innumerable red, blue and green lights, in the afternoon several boats visited the eruption, cruising over the most active part where its water was in a state of peculiar activity, boiling and appearing as if passing over rapids, or very much like the water at Hell Gate, New York. Blocks of lava two feet square, cannon-ball size, frequently striking the boats. As the lava was quite soft no harm was done. Nearly all the pieces, on reaching the surface, were red hot, emitting steam and gas, strongly sulphurious. A rumbling noise was heard like that of rocks in a crusher, caused no doubt by the eruption of the lava from the submarine crater, which is supposed to be a crack or line of the rupture extending at least a mile from the shore. Another rupture, doubtless a continuation of the submarine fissure, was traced inland from the shore nearly three miles, varying in width from a few inches to three feet. In some places water was seen pouring down into the abys below. A severe shock of earthquake was felt by those living at Kaawaloa and Keei during the night of the eruption, which must have preceded the outbreak. It was quite severe, but no damage reported.

Murder.

SILVER CITY, March 9.—Near Dayton yesterday afternoon a man named McDowell shot and killed a boy named James Nalls, aged 18 years. The murderer was at large, hotly pursued. The murder was unprovoked and unlooked for. A woman is known to have been at the bottom of the affair.

Served Him Right.

VIRGINIA CITY, March 9.—The first criminal conviction under Stewart's bill to prevent cruelty to women, took place in Judge Moses' court to-day. A man named Marshall, convicted of wife-beating, will be tied up to a post near the court house to-day at 2 o'clock, with a placard, "Wife Beater," fastened on his breast. There is considerable excitement over the affair.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 10, 1877.

RETURN TO SPECIE.

The nomination and confirmation of Senator Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury gives peculiar importance to his views upon the question of a return to specie payments. It has been generally conceded that some legislation in addition to the act of January, 1875, is necessary to make resumption at the time designated in that act practicable. Naturally, the Secretary of the Treasury will be looked to to mature and present such necessary legislation. Is Mr. Sherman likely to meet that expectation?

Mr. Sherman has long been regarded as one of the best informed men in the Senate, on all matters relating to national currency and finance. His position on the committee directly charged with attention to such matter, has at the same time proved the confidence reposed in his judgment by his fellow Senators and added to his experience in financial matters. But there is more direct evidence of his soundness on the question of resumption and of his application of what is necessary to a realization of the idea of abandoning the system of irredeemable paper currency, and returning to the money of the civilized world. He recently introduced a bill in the Senate, to aid in resuming specie payments, which had evidently been considered with great care, with a view to making the adoption of specie and the retiring of the legal tender notes sure, without incurring the risk of any injurious effect on business interests. While he maintained that the change could be made, from greenbacks at 95 to specie at 100 per cent., without derangement to trade, he thought it best to provide against any possible corner in the money market. So his bill, while making resumption its main object, kept constantly in view the protection of business. It proposed to issue bonds to the amount of one hundred million dollars, bearing interest at 4 per cent. per annum, and payable in coin after thirty years, to replace and cancel an equal amount of legal tender notes. But no more than twenty-five millions of these bonds were allowed to be exchanged directly for greenbacks in any one year, and no more than four million in any one month. It was further provided that eight million dollars of silver coin should be issued to replace an equal amount of legal tender notes, the latter to be received directly in exchange for the silver, and to be canceled or destroyed when received.

Some affected to think this would not work, and that resumption must remain unaccomplished for a long time yet. But Mr. Sherman is evidently right. Those who do not see the way clear to resumption have not taken account of the status of our trade with foreign countries. It has been generally known that the balance was turning in our favor for some little time, but it has not generally been understood how large the balance is. Figures taken from the bureau of statistics of the United States for the year 1876 show that our sales of domestic and foreign goods exceeded our purchases by the enormous sum of $190,888,421, while the total export of specie from this country was only $21,875,068. The exports of merchandise have been increasing for eight or nine years, and were larger during 1876 than any previous year, while our exports of specie touched a lower point last year than at any time for a great many years. The balance, taking into account both merchandise and specie, was against us till 1874. In that year it turned in our favor, but with a very narrow margin. Since then the annual footings have been in our favor by a constantly increasing amount. And the balance for the first two months of 1877 is even more favorable than for the corresponding period of 1876. Resumption, therefore, is practicable, and by the plan proposed in Mr. Sherman's bill, may be made about without the slightest friction. The attention of Congress was so engrossed during the late session that the bill failed to get through, but it is likely to be renewed at the opening of next session.

VIRGINIA EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

We have heard a great deal of late about the interest the Southern States are taking in public schools. If the ideas that seem to prevail in the Old Dominion, with regard to the sort of education that is to be encouraged, are the same in all the South, little is to be hoped for in the way of inculcating national sentiments in the minds of the rising generation. The following letter tells more than enough of the Virginia "ten":

RICHMOND, Jan. 16, 1877.

To the Editor of The State. — I am acquainted with the school history you object to in your paper of this afternoon, and wish you consider it, as well as Northern histories of the United States generally, as unfit for use in Virginia public schools. Only Virginia-written books are allowed by the regulations of the board of education. Unfortunately this board is much restricted by law to provide for uniformity of text books, does not possess power sufficient to enforce its regulations in the face of resolute opposition on the part of the local authorities. But as respects this "Southern History," I have no knowledge of its being used even in one public school in the State, although I do not affirm that it is not. It was used in some of the Richmond public schools when the city system came under State control, in 1871, but I strenuously objected to it at that time and thought that its use was entirely discontinued. The city superintendent of schools tells me now that he does not know of any case in which it is used in the city schools.

It has been objected also that "Swinton's History of the United States" is used in some of our public schools. I can only say that it is done contrary to the regulations of the State board. Very respectfully,

W. H. RUFFNER,
Supt. of Public Schools.

Only "Virginia written volumes" for Virginia youth! Away with Goodrich! Away with Swinton! Away with Higginson! Away with whatever has not as distinct a Virginia flavor! Pollard and Stephens, and whatever else gilds the Lost Cause with attractive hues may be used, but never a line wherein the truth of the matter is recorded. Is that the education which is to give tone and color to the next generation of Southern people?

Opposition to the independent policy of President Hayes is dying out, or rather the opponents are being crushed out by the weight of public opinion. Bummers to the rear!

On Thursday, February 22, there appeared editorially in the Ohio State Journal an article on Louisiana affairs, which created a great sensation. It was extremely bitter in its tone, and in the opinions and sentiments it expressed, agreed with the most extreme of the Republicans. The reason it created so great a sensation, was, that that paper was generally supposed to convey the sentiments of Mr. Hayes. When the paper reached Washington the following afternoon, it was quickly passed round through the House of Representatives, and great excitement immediately ensued. A recess was promptly voted, and for a while it seemed evident that the House would refuse to proceed further with the count of the Electoral votes. It was generally agreed, even among the conservative class of Democrats, that violence would be excusable if its purpose was to prevent the inauguration as President, of a person whose Southern policy was foreshadowed in that article. The Republicans became uneasy, and Stanley Matthews, Chas. Foster and Gov. Dennison, joined in a telegram from Washington, making inquiry how the article came to be published, and the answer came in two telegrams as follows:

COLUMBUS, Feb. 23, 1877.

TO HON. STANLEY MATTHEWS, Washington, D. C.: The article on Louisiana affairs in the State Journal yesterday was originally a communication lying in the office and was used by the young men in charge of the office in the absence, by severe illness, of Gen. Conley. Gov. Hayes is no way responsible.

O. H. GROSVENOR,
Speaker House of Representatives.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 23, 1877.

General Conley has been very sick for a week past. He is not permitted to see or talk to any one, and your dispatch cannot be shown to him. He is not allowed even to read anything that appears in the State Journal. The article in the Journal of Thursday on Louisiana affairs was not written by him. Governor Hayes neither inspired nor wrote it, nor did he hear of it until his attention was called to it by your dispatch from Washington.

A. W. FRANCISCO,
Associate proprietor of State Journal.

The offensive article has been taken up by the violent Democratic papers and reproduced, with comments attributing it to Mr. Hayes, whereas it is nothing more than the effusion of some unknown person, who wanted to give himself an airing through the newspapers.

The Supreme Court of the United States has affirmed the decision of the courts in Wisconsin, sustaining "The Potter Law." This was the act of the Wisconsin legislature, fixing the rates of freight and fare on the railways of the State, by an elaborate schedule of classification, and prohibiting discrimination against places or individuals. The corporations resisted the law, on the ground that the legislature had not constitutional power to pass such laws. The Supreme Court decides against the corporations, holding that the States have the right to regulate the rates of freight and fare on all roads within their boundaries. The decision was announced on the 1st instant, the opinion being delivered by Chief Justice Waite, and all the justices, except Mr. Justice Field, concurring. This is a victory of the people and of the right. The highest court of the land has now sustained the doctrine upon which the Independents made their fight against the two political parties three years ago. But the decision did not come until after the politicians were forced, by the independent people, to abandon their alliance with the corporations. Whether the effect of this decision will be to cause the corporations to confine themselves to their legitimate business, letting politics alone, or whether it will be to set them to work to control the legislative nominations, remains to be seen. Happily in Oregon the railways have ceased to be party machines since the retirement of Mr. Holladay from their management. It will be their safety to remain out of the political field.

As a writer who inquires how it is that Congress can not go behind the returns of a State in determining who are Presidential electors, is not being a national matter, the St. Paul Pioneer Press replies:

By the Constitution all that concerns the manner of appointing Presidential electors is expressly reserved to the State. "Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof shall direct," a number of electors, &c." The appointment of electors is regulated therefore, wholly by State law, and Congress has nothing whatever to do with the manner of their appointment. Those are the true and lawful electors whom the State designates as such, and the Constitution knows no other. They become Federal officers, we suppose, when they assemble to discharge the functions imposed upon them by the Constitution, and then, but not till then, they become subject to federal law.

This is the old and has been the universally accepted reading of the Constitution till now. Some two ago we published a bill which passed both houses of Congress in 1800 for deciding disputes in counting the vote of electors. This bill was drawn by John Marshall, afterward Chief Justice of the United States and the greatest jurist who ever sat on the Supreme Bench. This bill of 1800, like the Arbitration bill, referred all disputes to a Grand Committee—a joint committee of both houses, with the Chief Justice as an umpire—and it provided that "the committee should have power to examine into all disputes relative to the election of President and Vice President other than such as might relate to the number of votes by which the electors may have been appointed." That is to say at that early day it was held by Congress that it had no power to enter into an inquiry as to what electors were chosen by the popular vote, but must accept the decision of the State as final.

THE MAGAZINES. — Scribner's Monthly for March presents an interesting table of contents. The first article is "The New York Aquarium," with beautiful illustrations. Dr. Holland's novel "Nicholas Minturn" is continued. The promised article on Princeton College, with the portrait of Dr. McCosh, appears, and is worth a year's subscription. The editorial work, it is needless to say, is excellent.

St. Nicholas is still St. Nicholas, and that is saying all that need be said. The frontispiece of the March number is a beautiful picture, almost telling by itself the story it is intended to illustrate. Young folk's literature is already an established institution, and St. Nicholas is its best representative.

Gen. Devens, the nominee of the President for Attorney General was the Superior Court, not the Supreme Court, of Massachusetts, as the types made us say yesterday morning.

Will the writer of the letter signed "Public Welfare," please send us his name?

BRIEF NOTES.

Matinee.

Motion day.

Cold and miserable.

Steamer goes at 6 o'clock A. M.

Last night of the Jubilee Singers.

Very large list of passengers on the Elder.

The Stark-street ferry now runs without a cable.

The grand jury finds fault with the manner in which the county poor farm is managed.

"J. A." received some twenty answers in two days to an advertisement—the fruits of advertising in the "oldest."

In the Police Court yesterday morning Dan Owens, a constitutional old bum, got 5 days, and James Cochlan $10 for abusive language.

The estate left by the late Geo. W. Vaughn is estimated to be worth $50,000. Miss Libbie Vaughn, his daughter, is sole heir to the property.

Mrs. Hollubaugh was suddenly prostrated Thursday evening while attending the First Presbyterian church, with an attack of heart disease. We are pleased to state that the lady is recovering.

Mr. L. R. Patton, for many months connected with Clarke & Henderson, has, we learn, taken the position of chief salesman with Mrs. L. Ach, of the City of Paris store. He will assume his duties on Wednesday, Mrs. Ach having gone to San Francisco to day to purchase new stock.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Rev. Mr. Acton will preach at the Congregational church to-morrow at 11 o'clock. Communion service will be held at the conclusion of the sermon. Evening service will be omitted.

Rev. P. C. Hetzler, district agent of the American Bible Society, will preach to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, in the East Portland M. E. church. At night will be held at the same place, the monthly missionary concert of the Sabbath school.

Unitarian Church. Service at 11 A. M. Mr. Gavin will preach on "The Irrepressible Conflict of Life." Evening service will be omitted. All are invited to attend the union meeting at the Taylor street Methodist Church at 7:30 o'clock, in the interest of the Oregon Bible Society.

Preaching at the Baptist Church, corner Fourth and Alder streets, at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. by Rev. I. C. Baker, of Oakland, Cal. Sunday School missionary for Pacific coast. The sermon at 8 P. M. will be directed to children, and will be closed in time for the Union sermon at the M. E. church. Rev. D. J. Pierce is too ill to fill his appointment at East Portland.

Taylor street M. E. Church. Preaching to-morrow morning by the pastor, C. V. Anthony. Subject: "Offenses—Whence they are and What they Do." Sunday school at 2 P. M. Praise service at 6:30 P. M. At 7:30 P. M. there will be in this church an adjourned meeting of the Oregon Bible Society. The meeting will be conducted wholly by the managers of that society. Prayer meeting Thursday evening. All are cordially invited to attend.

OREGON BIBLE SOCIETY.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY—REPORTS, ELECTION OF OFFICERS, ETC.

Last Wednesday the annual meeting of the Oregon Bible Society was held at the First Presbyterian Church in Portland.

Gen. E. B. Babbitt, the Secretary, submitted the following

REPORT,

Which was read and placed on file:

Brethren—Friends of the Bible: We are happy to greet you on our assembling to celebrate the Twenty-ninth Anniversary of our "Oregon Bible Society."

In accordance with our custom, we desire now to lay before you, in brief form, a report of the work of the society during the past year.

If in scattering the good seed over our vast field, large portions of which are sparsely settled, we have not accomplished all which could have been desired; the results have been such as greatly to encourage a continued effort under the same great fostering care hitherto vouchsafed us, upon which we confidently rely for success in the future, as in the past.

And now we respectfully invite your attention while we present a view of the main points of interest in our work of the year.

Some items from our Depositary show that at the commencement of the year, we had in our Depositary,

Books to the value of	$2,356 49
Received since from T. Bradford, $67 50
Advance in price on books rec'd, 136 75—	204 25
Received during the year from A. B. S.	1,043 69
Amount to be accounted for	$1,479 41
Issued	$1,596 57
Remaining on hand	2,883 84
Proof	$4,479 41

From our reports of our branch societies we have the following minutes:

Value of books on hand at the beginning of the year	$1439 60
Received in the year	1050 22
To be accounted for	$2489 82
Sold in year	$ 93 24
Donated	30 60
Drawn by life members A. B. S.	6 25
" " " O. B. S.	4 90
Reduction in price of damaged books	13 90
Value of books on hand with Brch. Soc's	1808 77
Proof	$2489 82
Amount of donations and collections of friends from the Branch Societies and agents	$ 448 20
Our Treasurer's report will show additional donations from sundry churches in our city and East Portland. The same report will show that we had on hand at the beginning of the year the sum of	308 27
Rec'd from all sources since	1632 12
To be accounted for	1940 39
Expended to date	$1411 29
	529 10
Since received	6 99
Remaining on hand	1 535 09
Greater than last year	226 82

The colporteur agency system has not been resorted to during the past year, and yet through the commendable efforts of the several branches and a few local agents, the total sales and donations of Bibles has been nearly $400 greater in value than in the year preceding. This increase of sales may also be accounted for in part by a gradual increase of settlers within our field, and more especially by the efficient agency of Rev. Mr. Hetzler, district superintendent of the American Bible Society, who, in addition to his legitimate duties for the parent society, has rendered much valuable and gratuitous service in the Bible work of our Society in accordance with the request and sanction of the committee of managers.

Voluntary service of colporteurs to any considerable extent can have to be expected in the large and thinly settled districts; but may be had to some extent in the cities and towns, and in the ensuing year your committee may find it expedient to employ to some degree both hired and voluntary service in prosecuting the work.

Regular meetings of your committee for the transaction of business, are held on the first Wednesday evening of each month.

We report as last year, 17 Branch Societies, including a small agency at Fort Colville.

In closing our report, we would invoke the Divine blessing upon the labors of the past, and seek His guidance and supervision in all matters pertaining to the work of the future. In all of which let us hope for the prayerful sympathy and co-operation of every friend of God's Word.

E. B. BABBITT,
Secretary Or. B. Society.

REPORT OF DEPOSITORY.

After the transaction of other business connected with the Bible cause, the society adjourned to meet at the Taylor street M. E. church, to-morrow (Sunday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

"I'll Sing along my Heavenly Way."—Jubilees.

See the New White Shuttle Machine the greatest invention of the country. Office, 123 First street.

"We'll hab a little shout when we git on de Island."—Jubilees.

To be beautiful, graceful, healthful and comfortable, wear Dr. Warner's corset. Third street near Morrison.

The neatest thing out for a schoolboy is "Smith's Scholar's Companion;" price 35 cents. J. K. Gill & Co. sold a gross of them during Christmas week, and have just received another large lot of them.

"General Roll Call."—Jubilees.

Dr. Halpruner's RHEUMATIC LINIMENT is a sure cure for RHEUMATISM, SORE THROAT, ACHES, PAINS, CHILBLAINS, etc. It can be had at the Doctor's office until he has it ready for the market. The Doctor will send a bottle by express, or a box of his Salve by postoffice. Price, 50 cents each, expressage extra.

The Singer Manufacturing Co. report their sales for the year 1876 at 202,316 Machines, being an excess of 12,464 machines over their sales of 1875.

Mrs. B. A. Owens, M.D., Office and residence, east side First street, between Yamhill and Taylor. Special attention given to Women and Children's complaints. Also gives Medicated Vapor Baths, combined with Electricity, in treating Rheumatism and Chronic Diseases.

SUGGESTIVE.

Under date of March 9th our Eugene correspondent sends the following items:

The county court has been in session during the week past.

Mr. J. W. Parks the county assessor, has commenced work.

Camilla Urso is expected here on the 19th of the present month.

H. C. Owen, a former resident of this place, but now of California, is in town visiting friends.

J. B. Underwood and G. B. Dorris will be the candidates for Mayor at our next city election.

Mr. W. A. Alexander, a young typo of our city, was married to Miss Jennie Roach Tuesday last.

E. J. McClanahan was appointed ward supervisor for South Eugene district, and St. John Skinner for the North.

The Lane county teachers' institute will meet at Junction City on the 26th of this month and continue until the 30th.

Mr. G. W. Sankey held one of his most popular concerts Wednesday night last. Most of the songs were sung with good effect, and especially the chorus of the closing piece was well rendered.

The County Court appointed Mr. G. J. Buys, the editor of the Guard, justice of the peace, vice Joseph Ogle, resigned. This appointment is a good one; and about the only good one the present court can be credited with.

The Laurean and Eutaxian literary societies gave a very creditable entertainment a: Lane's hall on last Saturday evening, to a crowded house. The salutatory by Mr. J. L. Workman and the closing address by Miss Mary Hill, were a credit to the authors and an honor to the institution to which they belong. The society paper, edited and read by Miss Annie Underwood, was a literary treat to the audience; and the recitations by Miss Ina Condon and Mr. C. M. Hill, and the comic oration by Mr. C. L. Bryant, were remarkably good.

CATHOLIC ITEMS.

The following religious notes we condense from the Sentinel:

Vespers will commence at the Cathedral at 7½ on Sunday evenings until further notice.

The Catholics who reside in the vicinity of Union City, Union county, contemplate the erection of a church in Union next summer.

Rev. Edward Herman will celebrate the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at the residence of Mr. Richard Kennedy, on the 18th. Passion Sunday.

The Catholics of Baker City contemplate at an early day, to erect a school for boys on some land recently purchased with that object in view.

Father Croquet of Grand Ronde Indian agency, is erecting a large building for the use of the Sisters and their increasing number of Indian scholars.

We regret to learn through Maj. Mallet, Indian agent, at Tulalip, who is at present sojourning in the city, that Father Chirouse, O. M. I., the veteran missionary of that agency is suffering from a severe attack of neuralgia.

OREGON.

Salem has a new brass band organized, with first-class talent in it.

From the Corvallis Gazette we learn that Eva, daughter of Dr. J. R. Bayley, aged about 10 years, met with a painful accident at the skating carnival, last Saturday evening, by a fall, causing what is known as a "stick fracture" of the arm between the wrist and the elbow. She is getting along nicely.

An adjourned meeting of the Salem Academy of Medicine will be held on the 15th instant for the purpose of considering the diphtheria epidemic. The pathology of the disease will be presented in a short and concise form by one of the members, to be followed by discussion. The complications will then be considered, the nature of the present epidemic, the sequels, the treatment, and each part being examined in detail as presented.

Says the Albany Democrat: A little Englishman by the name of Baker, who has been cutting cordwood for John Hutchinson near this city during the past year, has had a "streak of luck." A few days ago he received word from his old home that he had fallen heir to an estate worth about £15,000. Accompanying this letter was a draft for quite a sum of money with which to pay his expenses back to "hold Hengland." He will start back on the next steamer, and our city collaboose, which he occupied on several occasions, will know him no more.

Every prospect of rain, and yet Fobre pursues his course as caterer.

"The Old Section."—Jubilees.

Masquerade suits and trimmings at J. Harris & Son's.

The Medical Institute of Dr. W. L. Adams, corner of First and Salmon streets, will be removed to Hood river in a few months. Till then chronic diseases of men and women will be treated in Portland as usual. An accomplished lady assistant to give baths to ladies and assist in their treatment always in the office.

The New White Shuttle Sewing Machine is the result of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of sewing machines.

"De Gospel Ship."—Jubilees.

Captains and pilots will note the fact that Peter Wilhelm has fitted up two rooms for their especial use at the Fountain, corner Ash and First streets. Number of Exchange papers on file, including those of London Daily Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

The ladies who wear Dr. Warner's health corset step along as lightly as gazelles and enjoy perfect freedom in every movement. Third street near Morrison.

The Bonanza mine-owners claim new developments, but will not let the public know. The proprietors of Noble Whisky favor a different plan, and having a good thing, don't object to giving it to the public.

Portland Steam Scouring Mills Scour and re-nap Blankets; scour and clean Mattresses; scour Ply and Ingrain Carpets; Brussels Carpets threshed, cleansed and spots removed. Leave orders at Weeks & Morgan's and Powers' Furniture Store.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians or sold by druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as Hoscrer's German Syrup for severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma on the Breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by Allen, Crane & Brigham, Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco.

NOTICE.

The undersigned in taking leave of Portland returns his sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that has been bestowed, and would bespeak for his successors a continuance of the same.

Both DRS. BARBER & NICKLIN are gentlemen in every way competent and worthy of any confidence that may be placed in them, and as such I can conscientiously recommend them to my former friends and patrons.

SWORN STATEMENT

OF A

BOSTON DRUGGIST.

Gentlemen,—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had buzzing in the ear, pains across the temple, dizzy spells, weak and painful eyes, swollen and ulcerated tonsils, hard and constant cough, severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my chest and throat that I could not keep them free. Frequently at night I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then have recourse to every means in my power to dislodge the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my tonsils were ulcerated, and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but the latest pronounced it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the poisonous matter dropping down from my head had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly,—a deep, hard cough. Meanwhile my system began to show the effects of this disease, so that I lost flesh, grew pale, and soon every symptom of an early death by consumption. When matters had reached this stage, or about six months ago, I began the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. The first dose seemed to clear my head as I had not known it to do for years. It seemed gradually to arrest the discharges. It stopped my cough in three days. By using the remedy a few weeks I soon relieved the inflammation and swelling of my tonsils, so that they soon ceased to trouble me. The soreness across my chest disappeared, the buzzing noises in my head ceased, my senses of hearing and of seeing were completely restored, and every symptom of disease that had reduced me to the verge of the grave disappeared by the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

I have been thus explicit because, as a druggist, I have seen a great deal of suffering from Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

I am familiar with the treatment of Catarrh as practiced by the best physicians, and have consulted the most eminent about my case. I have used every kind of remedy and apparatus that have appeared during a period of six years past, and have, while following their use, taken great care of my general health, but obtained no relief or encouragement from any of them.

Since curing myself with SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, I have recommended it in over one hundred cases without a single case of failure, and have in numerous instances received wholesale orders from parties to whom I have sold one bottle. This is the only patent medicine I have ever recommended, never having believed in them before, although constantly engaged in their sale.

Very gratefully yours,
GEORGE F. DINSMORE.

BOSTON, Feb. 28, 1875.

SUFFOLK, ss. Feb. 28, 1875.

Then personally appeared the said George F. Dinsmore, and made oath that the foregoing statement by him subscribed is true.

Before me, SETH J. THOMAS,
Justice of the Peace.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENT.

Since the above statement was made I have been rapidly improving in health. I have had no return of the disagreeable symptoms that attended my former sickness, and although affected from time to time with severe colds incidental to the sudden changes in our climate, they have not been sufficient to bring on a return of the disease. My general health has been excellent. I have gained twenty-five pounds and consider myself entirely recovered from a disease that a year ago seemed likely to totally undermine my constitution. Since last February I have consulted with a great many afflicted with Catarrh, and in the hundreds of cases in which I have sold it I have never seen an instance omitted to shake the confidence I feel in Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh.

MY PERIL AND ESCAPE.

I was a very bold and fearless girl, and my brothers and sisters often dared me to go into lonely places in the dark, or do perilous feats of various kinds, which challenges I never refused. Often they set out to play tricks on me, but it usually happened they fell into their own traps, while I performed my part in safety.

We lived in a large old house, built of English oak, and bearing its nearly two centuries very lightly. It opened to the south, and the two large parlors looked to the east and west. The dining hall and spacious kitchen formed the square of the house, while at the west and back was another large room, sometimes called the great porch. There were three stairways leading to the upper rooms and a garret whose ample space was broken only by the great chimney in the center.

We had a gay and lively house, and were used to a great deal of company and visitors, for my parents were greatly given to the old-fashioned virtue of hospitality. The humblest wayfarer coming in at the porch was entertained kindly and bidden God speed, as well as the guest whose elegant carriage and span drove around to the front door on the southern side.

It was a summer day, and warm, bright and beautiful. The morning promised a lovely day. Just after our early breakfast, a merry party came riding down the lane in carriages and on horseback, calling joyously to my father and mother to accompany them on a pleasure trip. They were accustomed to this mode of impromptu festivity, and gayly answered that they would soon be ready. It was only the day before that my father had returned from the Australian gold-fields, and had brought with him a bag of gold. I saw he had this, for I had seen him the night before counting some of it, and putting some of it into another bag.

Thomas brought the chaise to the door. Father's favorite black horse, whose coat looked like lustrous velvet, and who stepped so proudly, was pawing the ground impatiently as he appeared. He handed in my beautiful mother, and I stood looking on with childish pleasure at her pearly and rich dress, that so became her.

I hastened indoors again to see them wind down the private way that led through our extensive grounds, and half wished I were old enough to go with them. Hearing a slight noise, I turned and saw a stranger, a figure not unusual, save with a bundle hung on a stick.

He was leaning on the stone wall, and apparently looking after the carriages. He came forward in a moment, and asked if he might sit down and rest, and if I would kindly give him something to eat. Of course I said yes, and with light steps went for him substantial fare of bread and cheese, which he came into the kitchen to eat. Betsey and Hannah were busy, hurrying to finish their work, for they were going out to tea and to spend the evening. They asked gayly about their visit, paying little attention to the stranger, who was quietly eating. He had taken off his coat on the floor, and I saw his head was bald on the top, and the black hair turned up from behind over it.

He had prominent ears, low forehead and large mouth, with a receding chin, where grew a stubby beard of grizzly black, like his hair. I did not know why I observed all this, or his eyes, small and had under grayish brows, that seemed to glance furtively about him. His voice was hoarse and croaking, and had startled me when he first addressed me.

We were used to strollers of all kinds, and had paid. Perhaps I was mentally contrasting his repulsiveness with my father's noble and dignified features. He seemed to me very ugly. I was glad when he had finished his meal and risen to go. He asked permission to light his pipe, which was readily granted. He went out directly, passing accidentally through the sitting room and out of the great hall, where he lingered for a moment of two. He had thanked me civilly enough for his breakfast, but the girls laughed and nodded as he went out, and said they should think I had picked up a raven.

All that long, bright day I was busy and happy in the flower-garden, or sewing, or singing; and when the girls left, looking very cheerful at their half holiday, I kissed them a merry time, and told them not to hasten home, for Thomas should come for them. I expected my father and mother soon after 8 o'clock, and I told Thomas to start no sooner about that time, as they would soon be home, and it looked a little like rain. Heavy clouds had risen in the west, and the thunder rumbled sullenly. He took the covered wagon and old gray, and, before he stepped in, said:

"Miss Ann, I think you had better fasten up the doors, as you may be all alone for a short time if I go so soon. Would you not wish me that I should wait till your father comes?"

"Oh, no, Thomas; I don't mind being alone in the least, and you ought to go, lest it should rain hard, for it is more than a mile to ride, and they may not think of leaving in a minute. I expect father and mother every moment. Don't wait!"

So Thomas left, and the wagon rattled merrily up the lane. I bolted the doors, because he had told me to, for otherwise I would not have thought of it. It grew dark rapidly, and the thunder began to roll heavily, while the wind rose, and the flashes of lightning grew more vivid and frequent. I went to the east parlor, and looked out to the south; but the sudden lighting up of the sky, and the falling darkness did not interest me long. I could not see out very well, either, as the honeysuckles covered the windows. The large mirror reflected me as I turned away to cross the room, and I stopped a moment with a natural vanity, for I was young and fair enough to look upon.

I let all my hair fall loose, and wound it in long, shining, brown curls over my fingers. It certainly did look handsome, for it was very thick, and fell below my waist, and curled almost of itself as it fell. There came a great flash of lightning, and I saw distinctly reflected in the glass a face looking in at the window. It was an instant of terror, but I neither screamed nor moved. The face could not see my face, and I kept the body still, and rolled the long, shining rings off my cold, white fingers. It was an ugly face, and I recognized it. I had seen it that morning, and I knew what lay before me. I prayed inwardly a brief prayer for help.

Turning from the glass, I went steadily toward a table that stood near the window, and on which I had left my candle, and moved steadily as usual, and took up the water pitcher and looked in, then took my candle and went towards the kitchen. The lightning kept flashing, but the face did not come again. I dropped my candle on the kitchen hearth and put my foot on the wick, set down the pitcher on the dresser, and with soft, light footfall, hastened through the west room up the front stairs, into my father's chamber, and softly closed and bolted the door at the head of the stairs. I unlocked his box, took out both the bags of gold, relocked it, and made my way into the great chamber.

I heard voices; I heard the doors tried below. I knew it was not my father. I dared not tremble nor grow faint. I went through that room and two others to the garret stairs. I hardly breathed. I heard a window pushed up; more than one person came in at it. I felt about me in the dark. There was a sliding panel in the inside of the stairway. I pushed it, and it rolled back. I entered into a long closet under the stairs, and slid the panel carefully into its place. I felt cautious to see if all was safe. I pulled my dress close about me lest it might be caught, and the door not closed tightly. Then I waited. I heard steps coming up the stairs. I heard a search through all the rooms below. My heart beat till I thought that each bound must be audible, heard voices—one voice, the Raven's. I knew that harsh croak. It told me nothing. The face had revealed all to me. The man must have learned in some unaccountable way of the bag of gold, and learned too when here in the morning that I was to be alone. It was all plain to me now. He had returned and had brought accomplices. My peril was terribly imminent. Very soon the steps and voices came my way. I could distinguish plainly the words that were spoken.

"Drat her! she must have seen you."

"No matter; we'll split the box open with this ax."

I knew the ax was in the little porch. Thomas had set it in when he had done chopping the brush, as it looked like rain.

I heard the steps and voices move away, a dull, crashing sound, and then stifled, angry tones. I knew they had opened the box, and found nothing but the papers. I knew they would now search for me. I heard them as they looked into every room and closet, and came up the stairs separate. They all met at the foot of the garret stairs. A thick board was between us. I thanked God that the panel was close shut. I knew it; for no ray of light came through.

"She must be up here," said the Raven, "and we'll soon have her."

"I'll warrant she is here, and I'll wring her neck if she makes a noise about it."

But the thorough search was ended, and the voices grew very angry and full of frightful oaths and threatenings. They sat down on the garret stairs to hold a parley. A spider ran across my face. A spider puts me in mortal fear. It was with a great effort that I kept from screaming.

"Come," croaked the Raven, "let us go and get the silver; that will be something—that will be something."

Curse the silver. It's the gold I've come for, and I'll burn the house if I don't find the girl! So let her look out!"

A cold perspiration. Would they perform their threat?

"Good! then the rats will squeak. Down drop the money bags, and we'll choke the girl to make her dumb."

"Hold your noise. The old man will be coming home. We'll be caught here. Be quick."

"Who cares for him! He's only one; a bludgeon will give him a handy little headache as he comes in."

"And his wife?"

They spoke low, hideous words that made my flesh creep. I almost was ready to call a oud, to open the panel, to give them the gold, and bid them go. They got up, and the steps and voices went down. It was horrible there in the dark. I was stifling; I moved the panel slightly. No light entered. I slid it softly back. My resolution was taken. I would get out of the house, run down the road and meet my father. I would save him. I left the gold in the closet, shutting it in close. I stole down two steps into the chamber below. I knew there was a window open there. I crept across the room, listening keenly. I lifted myself cautiously on the window ledge and caught a branch of the cherry tree which grew close to the house. Swinging myself light y out, I hastily descended the trunk of the tree, and found myself on the ground, safe.

No; the lightning flash betrayed me. The Raven's voice shrieked hoarsely:

"There she goes! Catch her! Quick! This way!"

Out of the front door came the pursuers, hardly ten feet from me. I dashed toward the thick shrubbery to throw them off the track. Fortunately I knew the way, every step of it. They were guided solely by the sound and flashing light.

"Shoot her by the next flash!" cried one.

My flying feet struck loose boards. I was passing directly over an old, unused well very deep, and it gave back a hollow, resonant sound. At most the next moment I heard a crash, the report of a pistol, a heavy fall, oaths and a deep groan. Shuddering, I sped on through the garden, up toward the cider press, over the stone wall, down the hollow, up the hillside, over the fields. No steps followed; no voices shouted after me. I ran down to the second bars and let them down. It began to rain a few great drops, then fast, then it poured. I was wet to the skin. I ran on, for I heard advancing wheels coming rapidly; I stood in the road and cried: "Ha her! father!" The chaise stopped. Another chaise behind stopped also. It was our next neighbor's, who lived a quarter of a mile further on.

"Ann, my child. Good heavens! What is the matter! What has happened?"

I told the whole in a few word, amid eager exclamations of joy at my safety, of surprise, even of anger, because Thomas had left me alone.

"Don't blame him, father, I insisted on his going."

A hurried consultation took place. My father was very brave. Our neighbor was very timid. He proposed going on to his house and returning with weapons. In the meantime I had got into the chaise and crouched down at my mother's feet, who was half crying, and wholly thankful to feel me there.

We rode on, and came to our gates under the willows. There were lights in the house, but all was still. Nothing moved. My father put the reins in my mother's hand, and opened the other gate that led up the lane.

"Will you go home with Nathan?" said he.

"And leave you here? No."

"Take your wife home, Nathan, if you will, and come back."

"We will stay by you."

"Let us reconnoitre then, a little."

They got out, leaving us sitting still. The rain fell less heavily. They got something that would do for weapons from the tool-house. They went all around the house—all was quiet. They went in. We sat still, speaking few words, my hand clasped in my mother's and my frame trembling with fright.

"Thomas is coming!" I exclaimed, eagerly. "I hear the wheels."

We called to him as he came to the gate, for he could not see us. He drove through and called out:

"What is the matter?"

We told him sufficiently, and he left Betsy and Hannah, and went in at once, with only the heavy whip. We did not wait long. Nathan came out directly.

"What have you found? Who is there.'

"Nothing. Nobody."

"Are they all gone?"

"Yes, with some of the silver and a few things. We don't know what yet."

The horses were put under the shed, and we all went in. Father said calmly:

"We will take a lantern, Thomas, and look around out of doors a little."

I knew they would go to the old well. I stood and looked out of the window and saw the gleam of the lantern as it moved. In a very few minutes they came back.

"One of them is dead," said my father, "and the other lies at the bottom and groans. The thief has escaped."

They laid boards across some barrels in the shed, and brought up the dead man and laid him on them. His comrade, who fell in the well, had shot him through the head as he plunged through the boards. His ugly face was uglier. It was the Raven. That night my father's prayers were very solemn, and his embrace was close as he gave me my good-night kiss.

The robber in the well was bruised, but not seriously hurt. The law took him to punishment. The third escaped. I was never left at home again alone.

Liverpool Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, March 9.—Breadstuffs firm; except corn, which is dull. Corn—24s@24s 3d for new mixed western; 24s 6d@25s 9d for old. Wheat—10s 9d@10s 8d for average California white; 10s 8d@11s for club.

The leading grain circulars here is but little change in British markets, which are generally ruled low, although appearing rather firm as the week proceeded. Millers have been sluggish, but a good many cargoes off the coast found buyers, several being for the continent, on a spot, with little offering from recent large arrivals. The late decline has been arrested, and prices are better than on Tuesday, but mainly in favor of export. Fresh arrivals of wheat, maize and flour are liberal in this market to-day. There is a good consumptive demand for wheat, while realizing an advance of fully 2d per cental; red is held for a penny more, which checks sales. Flour is steady but unimproved. Corn is in moderate request at 8c. per quarter decline.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Wool quiet and firm; supply light. Colorado washed, 20@33c; unwashed, 10@20; extra and merino pulled, 35@42; No. 1 and super pulled, 30@36c; Texas fine and medium, 25@33c; coarse, 18@22c.

THE PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT.

Hayes Endorsed by all Parts of the Union.

Packard Tells His Little Story.

The Union League Endorse the President.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Union League club met to-night, John Jay presiding, Gov. Marshall Jewell, Peter Cooper and Judge Peabody on the platform. Resolutions were passed that the Republican party, after commanding great majorities in the States, in Congress, and in the national canvass, finds itself now in power only by a balance of a single electoral vote and confronted by a possible majority of the people and by an actual majority of the House of Representatives. Our supremacy in the future will depend not on the want of merit in our adversaries, nor on our noble achievements in the past, but on the real character and doings of the incoming administration. It has been asserted the diminution in our prestige and majorities is due to infidelity to our pledges, to putting unworthy men in office, and surrendering to party dictation; therefore,

Resolved, That greater strength and stability will be secured by absolute fidelity to the pledge to maintain sound principles, the rights, interests and honor of the whole people, that in President Hayes' letter of acceptance these principles were foreshadowed, and in his inaugural address, fidelity to public pledges is recognized as well as the statesmanlike comprehension of the conditions upon which the pacification of the States, prosperity of business, reform in the civil service and honor of the nation can be secured, and so long as his administration is faithful to these principles it will receive the support of this club; that in his nominations for the cabinet we recognize President Hayes' good faith to sever our principles and a desire to pacify discordant elements, and bring all parties of the Union into harmony, and the nominations ought to be at once confirmed.

Colorado Endorses.

DENVER, March 8.—The cabinet chosen by President Hayes gives general satisfaction here.

The Tribune says President Hayes' cabinet selections cannot fail to give very general satisfaction, as nearly universal satisfaction in fact as can in this world of conflicting interests, feeling and purpose, in the selection of seven officials from over forty million of people inhabiting an almost limitless extent of territory. Ability in character and in moral fitness the appointments are really above criticism.

The News says one thing will be observed and approved by every good citizen, and that is the fact that every one of the seven names sent to the Senate yesterday are the names of men eminent both in public and private life. For honor and uprightness their characters are unimpeachable; they stand in the foremost rank of good citizens. There is not an office seeker among them, and one of them has not held an office for 28 years. Their selection was an earnest of Mr. Hayes' desire to pacify the political atmosphere.

The Merchants of St. Louis Resolve.

ST. LOUIS, March 9.—The following resolutions were adopted to-day by the merchants and business men of this city:

Resolved, The sentiments enunciated by President Hayes' inaugural address and foreshadowed in the appointments of the cabinet, indicates a desire and determination to foster a conciliatory and fraternal feeling throughout the Union by such an administrative course, therefore be it

Resolved, That as representatives of the business interests of St. Louis, we hereby heartily approve of the just and conservative course thus far mapped out by President Hayes, and that our Senators and Congressmen be urged to rise above all party feeling, as patriotism alone should govern their actions.

Mass Meeting to Endorse.

CHICAGO, March 9.—A call is issued to-day for a non-political mass meeting on Monday evening to endorse the policy and course of the President in Southern affairs and cabinet appointments.

Commission Signed.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Senator Sherman's commission as Secretary of the Treasury, was signed this afternoon.

A Social Call.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Mr. Schurz was at the Executive Mansion this evening in consultation with the President. The call was more social than official. Assurance is given to-night that the President has no idea whatever of making any change in the list of nominations. The question of removing the troops from the South is likely to rest for the present, as there is no disposition on the part of the President to make any more hastily. There is nothing significant in the fact that no one except Sherman of the cabinet nominees were acted upon by the Senate to-day, Sherman having been chairman of the finance committee it would be an act of discourtesy to have his name left out entirely in making the committees or announcing his succession on the finance committee before they confirmed his nomination as Secretary of the Treasury; consequently the Senate confirmed him.

Brilliant Reception.

President Hayes to-night officially received officers of the army, navy and marine corps. The event was one of the most brilliant that has ever animated the parlors of the Executive Mansion. Nearly every officer of the army, navy and marine corps stationed here, and many others, were present. Gen. Sherman headed the army, Admiral Porter the navy, and the marine corps was presided over by Col. Heywood. The reception lasted until nearly 10 o'clock.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, March 8—Ex-Prest. Grant's cabinet met with President Hayes to-day. The treasury was represented by Conant, Secretary Sherman not yet having qualified.

A delegation of colored men from South Carolina, headed by Representative Rainey, called upon the President to-day. They will submit suggestions this afternoon.

Believes Packard the Legal Governor.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The Senate had only fifteen minutes' open session to-day. In the executive session there was a short discussion. It was thought McCrary and Thompson would be confirmed, but there was too much pressure for delay.

The chances are against Schurz' confirmation.

The Louisiana excitement is abating, and it is asserted President Hayes says he believes Packard to be the legal governor of Louisiana, and hopes he can sustain himself.

Conkling and Blaine.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Times' Washington special says: The purpose of Conkling in making his speech is regarded as a covert attack on Blaine. He did not once refer directly to Blaine, but its purpose was to expose the incompetency of that Senator to take charge of a question of so much magnitude, and so important in its results to the peace of the country. Blaine sat in his seat most of the time, with his head resting upon his hand, appearing to be in deep thought.

All the claimants for seats in the Senate are now disposed of, except two in Louisiana and one in South Carolina.

Blaine, in an attempt to lead the Senate in the contested election cases, has met with a kind of success not pleasing to the friends of Kellogg, whom he championed. It was clear Kellogg would need all the votes that could possibly be secured to obtain admission without reference to the committee, or perhaps even with the report of the committee. Morton intended, as chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, to insist the objections be disposed of in the order in which they were made. This would have placed Kellogg's case before all others. Blaine seized upon the management of the case, and has so far failed of his purpose, that Kellogg is sent to the committee and the Democratic Senators who were objected to have all been sworn in. Now there is but five Republican majority left, and if that majority is to be held together to admit Kellogg, some other Senator than Blaine must take the management.

What the Committee Did with the Cabinet Nominations.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The Times' Washington special says: Schurz was favorably passed in the finance committee with only one dissenting voice—that of Jones of Nevada, who is either acting with his ardent friend, Conkling, or else dislikes Schurz' views on the bonanza silver question.

Evarts was opposed in the committee on foreign relations by three Senators, reported to be Cameron, Hamlin and Conkling. A charge is made against him that while he was counsel for the government at the Geneva arbitration, he was also attorney for some marine insurance companies. If being attorney for insurance companies controlled his action before that tribunal, it must have been to render him more active in securing a large award. That was the service the United States desired of him. Hamlin may withdraw his opposition to Evarts, because he believes Blaine has determined to confine himself to the attempt to defeat the confirmation of Key. Whatever policy Blaine concludes to pursue will, of course, be followed by Hamlin. Key will be favorably reported by a majority of the committee on postoffices and postroads, of which Hamlin is chairman. The only nomination that has fallen into a real hornets' nest of opposition is that of Evarts.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says that the feeling against the cabinet appointments gradually subsides, and now only a few disappointed office seekers object to them. The President's manner impresses all who call with his force of character and earnestness, and shows them he has studied the questions on which he is acting until he has become master. Those who seek to advise find in his modest words a wisdom deeper than their own, and confess it freely. Admiration for him is growing. He receives hundreds of approving letters from North and South.

Blaine's Mistake.

Blaine has clearly made a great mistake. The country, so far as sentiment can be judged at Washington, sustains Hayes and repudiates, as the Senate will, the leadership of Blaine. Blaine has anxiously watched the newspapers, and, warned by the universal expression of Republican journals from all parts of the country, he can do nothing but make as good a stand as possible against the confirmation alone of Key. The probability now is he will be beaten on that restricted contest, and if so, he may as well retire to a back seat in politics. His friends are scared and ready to desert his following, which is much smaller than he imagines.

No Axes to Grind.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Gen. Butler called on the President to-day and told him he should support the administration and had no axes to grind.

Waited on the President.

The South Carolina colored delegation, consisting of Representatives Rainey, Cain, Small, Waite, and Supreme Court Justice Cordoza, Treasurer Maxwell and others waited on President Hayes to-day. The President spoke with perfect frankness, stating he desired to remove the antagonism existing between the races, especially politically, so that colored men and Republicans might not need the protection of the army. He stated the use of military force in civil affairs was repugnant to the genius of American institutions, and should be dispensed with if possible. He, however, recognized the necessity of protection at present, until that feeling of respect for the rights of political opponents should be entertained by the Democrats of the South. The President stated with regard to the difficulties at present existing in South Carolina, concerning which the delegation expressed great anxiety, he proposed to preserve the status quo left by his predecessor, and examine the condition of affairs carefully and deliberately before he acted. The delegation then withdrew, well satisfied with the interview.

There will be no Break.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says there need be no longer any fear that a break-up will occur in the Republican ranks. Blaine's speeches in the Senate, he says in an interview, have been misunderstood if they have been taken to mean that he will oppose the President's policy. He thinks it entitled to a trial, and if it succeeds none will more fully or gratefully acknowledge its wisdom than he; but he don't believe Hayes can recognize Nicholls and over turn Chamberlain without confessing he sits in the White House upon fraudulent pretensions. His reference to the South Carolina matter the other day was simply to expose to the country the machinations of politicians who are trying to barter away all the hold the Republican party has in the South, and he meant nothing more. Hayes repudiated these attempts at bargaining, and he does not think they will be repeated.

Panic of Bummers.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Tribune's Washington special says: There is a general panic among minor line of government employees at the prospect of Hayes' Cabinet, who will it is expected, take hold of various departments Monday, and institute many reforms. Montgomery Blair recommends that the Democrats join the President in his self-reliant attitude. Hayes has made many government employees happy by the statement that there would be no haste in changing the personnel of the departments.

Collector of Port.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The Herald's New Orleans special says: It is reported this evening upon good authority that Hayes telegraphed to Packard to-day offering him the collectorship of that port provided he would "step down and out." Packard replied he would be governor or nothing.

Packard's Telegram Pronounced Untrue.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The following was received by Senator Bayard to-day, and will probably be laid before the Senate when the Louisiana question comes up for further debate:

SHREVEPORT, March 9.

Packard's dispatch yesterday to Senator Blaine, that in every parish outside of New Orleans, except what he terms the five bull-dosed parishes, his government is recognized by all except a few Nicholls officials, is utterly untrue. The people of this parish and surrounding parishes spurn Packard's concessions, and render a hearty allegiance to Governor Nicholls. The Republican police jury of this parish has by formal resolutions recognized the Nicholls government. Nathan Gregg, President of the Shreveport Cotton Exchange, Samuel C. Head, President of the police jury of Caddo parish, N. C. Blanchard, President of the Democratic committee of Caddo parish, B. M. Johnson, banker.

Packard Writes a Letter.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.—Packard to-day addresses to the editor of the Cincinnati Commercial the following:

Sir: In an editorial in the Commercial of the 7th, you state the act of the commission has no bearing whatever upon the legitimacy of the Packard government, unless it can be proven that, as a matter of fact, more votes were cast for Packard than for the Republican electors who were certified by the returning board. The certified vote for electors was as follows: F. W. Kellogg, 75,135; J. H. Burch, 75,127; Peter Joseph, 74,913; L. A. Sheldon, 74,907; Morris Marks, 74,418; A. B. Levissee, 74,904; O. H. Brewster, 74,917; Oscar Jaffroin, 74,726. My vote for Governor, as certified by the returning board, laid by the Secretary of State before the general assembly, and counted by that body, was 74,624 votes; as opened before the board and certified by the Democratic state central committee, as follows:

W. P. Kellogg, 77,184; J. H. Burch, 77,162; Peter Joseph, 74,913; L. A. Sheldon, 74,903; Morris Marks, 75,240; A. B. Levissee, 75,395; O. H. Brewster, 75,497. Oscar Jaffroin, 75,618; and for Governor as follows: Stephen B. Packard, 76,477. This proves I received 621 more votes than the lowest elector, as returned by the returning board, and 1,575 more votes than the lowest elector as certified by the Democratic committee. The general assembly had more than a quorum of returned members in both houses when the vote for me was canvassed and declared according to constitutional requirements on the 2d of January, and before the expiration of Gov. Kellogg's term. This statement is made to correct the erroneous impression which appears to prevail with some Northern newspapers that I ran behind the Republican electoral ticket. If shotguns and violence are to determine the legitimacy of government, what would have been the effect had Watterson's 100,000 Kentuckians appeared in Washington on March 4th to support and inaugurate Tilden had he been a claimant encouraged by a state court that the general government should not interfere? Very respectfully, etc.,

S. B. PACKARD.

PANIC IN A CHURCH.

Frightened Women Crushed and Trampled to Death.

A Thrilling Description.

Frightful Scene in a Church.

NEW YORK, March 8.—There was a panic in the church of St. Francis Xavier, Sixteenth street, near Sixth avenue, to-night, caused by a woman fainting and crying fire; a rush of women from one of the galleries was made, and in the tumult which ensued, six women and one boy were trampled under foot and killed. The audience was composed entirely of women and children, it being women week in lent. The number of persons injured could not be ascertained. Father Langicake was preaching on hell and the terrors of the damned, and as the preacher was picturing the torments of purgatory a young woman in the corner gallery, overcome by her feelings, fainted and gave utterance to a hysterical scream, starting the worshippers and causing them to spring to their feet. The next moment some reckless person cried fire, and this gave rise to the panic. Father Langiacke implored the people to keep their seats, as there was no cause for alarm. Father Merrick, the pastor, hearing the screams and rush into the sanctuary. He called upon the congregation to keep their seats, as there was no fire. The congregation was dismissed and the organ began to play. The women in the main body of the church and gallery passed out in an orderly manner, but the people occupying that portion of the gallery where the commotion had begun and centered, rushed toward the exit from the gallery, and, almost crazed with fear, pushed and fought their way into the narrow stairway leading to Sixteenth street. The stairway is but four feet wide, and within three or four steps of the bottom makes a sharp turn, before it reached the vestibule. The crowd of maddened women rushed down the stairs, and would probably all have reached the street in safety, but at the bend in the stairway an aged and very stout woman fell headlong down the stairs. Before she could regain her feet the frantic crowd pressed on toward the vestibule and came upon the prostrate form, and those in the foremost ranks fell upon her. In a moment the passage way was choked, and a scene of the wildest confusion and most intense excitement ensued. The crowd in the rear pressed on with the most fierce life force, and nothing could be done to stop their advance. The crazed women fought their way toward the clocked-up stairway, trampling upon those who had fallen in front and crushing the life out of them. They screamed and fought like maniacs, and every effort to hold them back, so that the stairway could be cleared, was of no avail. Father Wyrte and several other priests, who were in the church parlors at the time the panic occurred, rushed round to the front of the church, and, assisted by parolmen, by main force dragged out some of the women who were lying on the stairs. A number of women were then got out alive and only slightly injured. In the struggle for life they were almost denuded of their clothing. As the priests and police, aided by a number of citizens, made their way up the staircase, they found lying on the steps four other women and a small boy. These were taken out to the open air, but life was extinct. One woman, Ann Forbes, was brought out alive and apparently not much injured. She was led, with the assistance of the police, to a drug store on Sixth avenue, near Sixteenth street, where she expired in a few moments. The bodies of the dead were identified, as follows: Mary Casey, of 229 West Eighteenth street; Anna Spencer and Michael Spencer, of 89 Ninth avenue; Mary Coughlan, 202 West Twenty-fifth street; Eliza Masterson, 408 Seventh avenue, and Ann Forbes, 61 West Nineteenth street.

Requiem Mass.

NEW YORK, March 9.—This morning in the St. Francis Xavier church, where the calamity of last-night happened, a solemn requiem mass was offered for the dead, and prayers said for the speedy recovery of the wounded.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

A New Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 9.—Prince Gortschakoff will soon hand over the direction of foreign affairs to Privy Councelor Valutyff or General Ignatieff. It is authoritatively stated that the latter in conversation with foreign statesmen will demonstrate Russia's aims are not of securing a separate Eastern policy by obtaining declarations from the powers, but that it is the Porte's duty to execute the conference programme, and unless the Porte fulfills that duty any European powers will be at liberty to commit its fulfillment.

Reforms of the Turkish Empire.

CONSTANTINOPLE March 9.—The Turkish minister of foreign affairs has sent the following dispatch to the Ottoman ambassador at London. The reforms proposed by the conference and accepted by the imperial government are already being applied. They embrace two classes, viz.: reforms resulting from organic laws, which will be submitted to the Parliament, and reforms immediately applicable, which are as follows: Reorganization of the gen d'armie, the scheme for which has been elaborated and handed to Col. Baker for his consideration; division of the communes into cantons, which will be done as soon as the provincial authorities can assemble and send to Constantinople the information for which they have been asked, in regard to the distribution of the corps of gen d'armie, composed of Mussulmen and Christians, a system which already exists in several parts of the empire; the admission of Mussulmen subjects to military schools, which are authorized and decreed by the august master; prohibition of the migration of Circassians en masse into Roumania, and the non-employment of the regular troops except when absolutely necessary; interdiction against carrying arms without special authority for individuals implicated in recent events at Philippopolis; formation of a special commission to be dispatched to the villayetts of Bosnia and the Danube, and Adrianople; sanction of the liberty of public worship; all legislation upon religious matters to come under the jurisdiction of patriarchs; remission of arrears of taxes due to January 1st, 1877, in the provinces that have suffered; maintenance of the right to property already acquired by Christians in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

What Roumania Will do.

LONDON, March 9.—The Bucharest Telegraph declares that in the event of war Roumania's policy is fixed. She must ally herself with Russia, if Europe won't protect Roumania.

Hopes of Peace.

The Post's dispatch from Berlin says of late greater confidence is manifested in a pacific solution. It is even asserted in some quarters that such result is assured.

Mohammedans Begin Again.

A dispatch from Vienna says Mohammedan Boys in Bosnia have issued a proclamation declaring the privilege of Mohammedans over Christian Rajahs fully re-established.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Prince Imperial will Issue a Manifesto.

PARIS, March 8.—It is rumored the Prince Imperial is about to issue a manifesto to the French people.

Re the and Occident.

SACRAMENTO March 9.—The attendance is very large and pools increasing. Both horses are on the track, looking fine. Judges: C. F. Reed, Yolo; Alfred Ellis and E. J. Weeks, of San Francisco. Timers: Henry Seales and J. H. McAllister, of San Francisco, and Edgar Mills, of Sacramento. Pools sell rapidly at this rate: Bodine $100, 15, 180, 100 110 to Occident $130, 125, 180, 80 and 90. Weather cool and cloudy.

Bodine wins first heat in 2:24½, and second heat in 2:23½.

Bodine Wins.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—The race at Sacramento to-day between Occident and Bodine disappointed those who expected fast time. The track was in good condition; weather cloudy, cold and threatening. Both horses appeared in good form, and about 3,000 people were in attendance. Before the race pools sold briskly. Bodine was the favorite slightly at first, and later at about two to one. Occident drew the pole. At 2:20 P. M. they got off on the third score. Occident broke at the first turn, falling behind fully 100 yards, but closed up half of the distance at the first mark, where he broke again, but recovered quickly. The first quarter was made in 37 seconds, the half 1:11, and the three-fourth in 1:45. On the homestretch, Occident, who had been gaining since passing the half mile, closed up splendidly and joined an even position, but just reaching the score Bodine not ahead, winning by a neck in 2:24. Between heats the betting was equal at nearly three to one on Bodine. A good start was had in the second heat. Bodine led slightly to the 8th post; he then led by a length to the quarter pole, time 36½; made the half in 1:10. On the turn Occident pulled up some and went on Bodine's wheel to the three quarter post, Occident then pulled alongside, but, as before, when near the score Bodine passed ahead and won by a length—time 2:23½. Bodine now sold seven to one in the pools. The third heat was a repetition of the second, Bodine winning in 2:25½.

Going Behind the Returning Board in Personal History.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—Regarding Blacklock, the absconding president of the Gulf of California Oyster Canning Co., it has been ascertained he is one of the three brothers named Hurley, who some years ago operated extensively in Chicago. St. Louis and Denver, as confidence men, Blacklock being the youngest of the trio. The gang was broken up in Denver by the lynching of one of the members. The brothers have gone by the aliases McCaw, Bennett and Blacklock. Wm. Salter Manning, secretary of the oyster company, has been heretofore engaged in the practice of medicine at Los Angeles, and Pureglove has been a resident of this city for many years. So far as known, both the latter have heretofore been reputable citizens. Pedro Garcia, director, and Don Ramon Gonzales, vice president of the company, prove to be myths.

That List.

The Examiner will publish an article this afternoon with reference to the much talked of list of fraudulent voters, claiming that the names of prominent citizens published in the list were not contained in the original list made out under the direction of the finance committee, but have since been interpolated by parties with the view of bringing the work of the committee into contempt, as careless and unreliable and in discrediting the whole investigation. It is not known yet whether the interpolation will be charged to any one by name, but it is understood the question is being worked up with a view of fixing the responsibility where it is alleged to belong. The list is still the talk of the town, and well known names are being continually picked out of it.

A Submarine Volcano.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The Honolulu Gazette of February 28th, contains the account of a remarkable submarine volcanic outbreak in Kealakeakua Bay, near the entrance to the harbor. The natives report that the eruption occurred at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 24th, appearing like innumerable red, blue and green lights, and in the afternoon several boats visited the eruption, cruising over the most active part where the water was in a state of peculiar activity, boiling and appearing as if passing over rapids, or very much like the water at Hell Gate, New York. Blocks of lava two feet square, came up on the bow, frequently striking the boats. As the lava was quite soft no harm was done. Nearly all the pieces, on reaching the surface, were red hot, emitting steam and gas, strongly sulphurious. A rumbling noise was heard like that of rocks in a trestle, caused no doubt by the eruption of the lava from the submarine crater, which is supposed to be a crack or line of the rupture extending at least a mile from the shore. Another upture, doubtless a continuation of the submarine fissure, was traced inland from the shore nearly three miles, varying in width from a few inches to three feet. In some places water was seen pouring down into the abyss below. A severe shock of earthquake was felt by those living at Koawaloa and Keei during the night of the eruption, which must have preceded the outbreak. It was quite severe, but no damage reported.

Murder.

SILVER CITY, March 9.—Near Dayton yesterday afternoon a man named McDowell shot and killed a boy named James Nalls, aged 18 years. The murderer was at large, hotly pursued. The murder was unprovoked and unlooked for. A woman is known to have been at the bottom of the affair.

VIRGINIA CITY, March 9.—The first criminal conviction under Stewart's bill to prevent cruelty to women, took place in Judge Moses' court to-day. A man named Marshall, convicted of wife-beating, will be tied up to a post near the court house to-day at 2 o'clock, with a placard, "Wife Beater," fastened on his breast. There is considerable excitement over the affair.

OLYMPIA, W. T.

ITS SURROUNDINGS—WATER POWER—RESOURCES—THE NORTH—A HEARD PECULIAR VIEWS OF A MEDICAL LECTURER.

We have been stopping at the beautiful capital of Washington Territory for a few days and are wonderfully taken with the proverbial kindness and urbanity of its excellent citizens; also the beauty of the place and its fruitable

WATER POWER

At Tumwater and from the Black lake, only a short distance from the city. Just now we are enjoying a rare treat, its being nightly to a course of medical lectures being delivered by the celebrated physician and lecturer,

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

of San Francisco. In his lecture on "The Throne of the Mind," the Doctor claims the autocrat of physiology is seat of life and the seat of mind in harmony, or nearly so. While the seat of mind is situated in certain portions of the brain, and life also in the same part, and while this is the controlling power of body mind and action of life, yet it remains partially passive and only

ACTS DIRECTLY ON THE INVOLUNTARY FUNCTIONS.

While the active working faculties and organs of the body carry on the great phenomena of thought and of life; or, in other words, as if were that the seat of life and seat of the mind will a genera giving directions to his officers which do military duty while he remains taking observations; that every part of the human body thinks, and this is truly a novel theory but was fully sustained by apt illustrations, eliciting from his appreciative audience rounds of plaause as he progressed from one sect to another in the discussion of this mysterious theory

OF HIS OWN.

Said he, The child at birth, at first exhibits no signs of mind, but has almost entirely physical; but as the body grows the mind slowly develops and takes supremacy after the body is done growing. The body is then altered, changed in form and features by the influence of the mind upon every part, and upon this method of thought, every one should be very careful how they think. They should keep the mind

PURE AND FREE

In order to have a pure and well balanced body." Through out the discourse there were new lights dropping out as every well-rounded period, at least whether true or false, are worthy the consideration of the people. He truthfully declared that the medical men of the land had never been too still upon this great question of life. He further said we were not governed by instinct altogether, like the animals, but are creatures of teaching. Everything comes by study; which point Dr. Brenan illustrated by an animal falling into deep water and swimming the shore safely, while a child or man could not accomplish such a feat without a knowledge of the art of swimming; and many other examples. In his lecture last evening on

THE LAWS OF LIFE,

To a crowded house of intelligent people, the Doctor astonished them by remarkable statement that 75 per cent. of all the children born in America die before they are five years old; and that 25 per cent. die before they arrive at maturity and he showed the necessity of the people looking into this terrible mortality. He disclaimes that the children born on the Pacific coast have

SMALL BONES AND LARGE BRAINS.

This is the rule while there are some exceptions, and it is also a matter worthy the consideration of the medical fraternity. Children born here are smaller in stature, and so attributed one of the causes to a lack of

PHOSPHATE OF LIME IN THE WATER;

And consequent lack of vegetation. This principle should be supplied by the chemists and physicians. The Doctor has a principle which will supply the lack, says he, "If this condition of things is allowed to go on, in the course of two generations we will have a race of pigmies if immigration ceases."

The Doctor is a powerful, magnetic man and sends home his truths to the audience in convincing style, his eloquence is natural and peculiar. To prove his novel theory that the mind controls every portion of the body after development, he requested the audience to call on some persons well known to themselves, and he managed to bring to the platform some of the most prominent men of Olympia, who, upon appearing forward and the Doctor examined their gait, their walk, their faces, their hands, and general appearance without scarcely touching their heads, and so correctly did he describe their past as many declared his description was perfect, and more so than they could have come, and they had known them for years. This is one of Dr. Brenan's remarkable gifts which he possesses in addition to his great phrenological powers.

Olympia has a grand public treat on Monday night on the final termination of the great national political game, in which Gov. Hayes turned up Jack. The result was not a surprise to us, but one all over, although the idea of throwing lice to determine something already determined at the ballot-box was something novel to an unsophisticated soul," of whom we are sorry to be one. The ringing of bells at early twilight was the signal for lighting the great pile of wooden combustibles in the public park and for the simultaneous lighting of gas and candles, which adorned every light of glass in the city from cellar to apex.

GOV. FERRY

And Secretary Greene, two as fine-haired men as ever raised a stump speech, had been all day superintending the construction of some huge candle sticks, which were placed in their front office windows in the second story of James' Block, and at the signal hour our very polite governor—the best we ever had—with torch in hand and his eyes gleaming like battle-axes lit, came to the front, and with one wave of his flaming torch, "lit up" the whole front of the building, including the windows of Barnes' banking rooms in the first story. Then followed the postoffice and Mayor Horr's front office, which was accomplished by his patriotic wife, assisted by several small boys, and the mayor. Looking across the bay could then be seen a fine view of the illuminated mansion of Captain Percival, also upheld by a huge bonfire. A company with the Olympian banker and the governor's private secretary, Mr. Porter, we took in a view of the entire illumination. Among the finest was that of the home of plantoldGen. McKinly, whose vigor in this reminds of his style of chasing old Pap Price in Missouri. All the offices of every one of the U. S. government were beautifully illuminated. The band and the people of the city kept up the music in open air, alternately, until 9 P. M., when it ceased. Among the newspaper offices, while all were attractive like a halo of glory, there was the

STANDARD,

Had his office lit up inside to resemble the firefly lamps over the dismal swamp. These Democratic editors of this city are not the kind to lay down. After the sound of music, of cannon, and the bells and the brass band had died away, we were pleased to listen to the sweet strains of music from the string band at Columbia hall, where a ratification ball was held, and for long hours did our noble governor and lady "trip the light fantastic toe" with the citizens of Olympia in, honor of the great event above referred to. However I was Lem. Take a breath.

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 10, 1877.

RETURN TO SPECIE.

The nomination and confirmation of Senator Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury gives peculiar importance to his views upon the question of a return to specie payments. It has been generally conceded that some legislation in addition to the act of January, 1875, is necessary to make resumption at the time designated in that act practicable. Naturally, the Secretary of the Treasury will be looked to to mature and present such necessary legislation. Is Mr. Sherman likely to meet that expectation?

Mr. Sherman has long been regarded as one of the best informed men in the Senate, on all matters relating to national currency and finance. His position on the committee directly charged with attention to such matter, has at the same time proved the confidence reposed in his judgment by his fellow Senators and added to his experience in financial matters. But there is more direct evidence of his soundness on the question of resumption and of his application of what is necessary to a realization of the idea of abandoning the system of irredeemable paper currency and returning to the money of the civilized world. He recently introduced a bill in the Senate, to aid in resuming specie payments, which had evidently been considered with great care, with a view to making the adoption of specie and the retiring of the legal tender notes sure, without incurring the risk of any injurious effect on business interests. While he maintained that the change could be made, from greenbacks at 95 to specie at 100 per cent., without derangement to trade, he thought it best to provide against any possible corner in the money market. So his bill, while making resumption its main object, kept constantly in view the protection of business. It proposed to issue bonds to the amount of one hundred million dollars, bearing interest at 4 per cent. per annum, and payable in coin after thirty years, to replace and cancel an equal amount of legal tender notes. But no more than twenty-five millions of these bonds were allowed to be exchanged directly for greenbacks in any one year, and no more than four million in any one month. It was further provided that eight million dollars of silver coin should be issued to replace an equal amount of legal tender notes, the latter to be received directly in exchange for the silver, and to be canceled or destroyed when received.

Some affected to think this would not work, and that resumption must remain unaccomplished for a long time yet. But Mr. Sherman is evidently right. Those who do not see the way clear to resumption have not taken account of the status of our trade with foreign countries. It has been generally known that the balance was turning in our favor for some little time, but it has not generally been understood how large the balance is. Figures taken from the bureau of statistics of the United States for the year 1876 show that our sales of domestic and foreign goods exceeded our purchases by the enormous sum of $190,888,424, while the total export of specie from this country was only $21,875,068. The exports of merchandise have been increasing for eight or nine years, and were larger during 1875 than any previous year, while our exports of specie touched a lower point last year than at any time for a great many years. The balance, taking into account both merchandise and specie, has against us till 1874. In that year it turned in our favor, but with a very narrow margin. Since then the annual footings have been in our favor by a constantly increasing amount. And the balance for the first two months of 1877 is even more favorable than for the corresponding period of 1876. Resumption, therefore, is practicable, and by the plan proposed in Mr. Sherman's bill, may be brought about without the slightest friction. The attention of Congress was so engrossed during the late session that the bill failed to get through, but it is likely to be renewed at the opening of next session.

VIRGINIA'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

We have heard a great deal of late about the interest the Southern States are taking in public schools. If the ideas that seem to prevail in the Old Dominion, with respect to the sort of education that is to be encouraged, are the same in all the South, little is to be hoped for in the way of inculcating national sentiments in the minds of the rising generation. The following letter tells more than enough of the Virginia "idea":

RICHMOND, Jan. 16, 1877.

To the Editor of The State: I am acquainted with the school history you object to in your paper of this afternoon, and wish you consider it as well as Northern historians of the United States generally, as unfit for use in Virginia public schools. Only Virginia-written histories are allowed by the regulations of the board of education. Unfortunately this board, although required by law to provide for uniformity of text books, does not possess power sufficient to enforce its regulations in the face of resolute opposition on the part of the local authorities. But as respects this "Goodrich's History," I have no knowledge of its being used even in one public school in the State, although I do not affirm that it is not. It was used in some of the Richmond public schools when the city system came under State control, in 1871, but I strenuously objected to it at that time and thought that its use was entirely discontinued. The city superintendent of schools tells me now that he does not know of any case in which it is used in the city schools.

It has been objected also that "Swinton's History of the United States" is used in some of our public schools. I can only say that it is done contrary to the regulations of the State board. Very respectfully,

W. H. RUFFNER,
Supt. of Public Schools.

Only "Virginia written volumes" for Virginia youth! Away with Goodrich! Away with Swinton! Away with Higginson! Away with whatever has not a distinct Virginia flavor! Pollard and Stephens, and whatever else gilds the Lost Cause with attractive hues may be used, but never a line wherein the truth of the matter is recorded. Is that the education which is to give tone and color to the next generation of Southern people?

Opposition to the independent policy of President Hayes is dying out, or rather the opponents are being crushed out by the weight of public opinion. Bummers to the rear!

On Thursday, February 22, there appeared editorially in the Ohio State Journal an article on Louisiana affairs, which created a great sensation. It was extremely bitter in its tone, and in the opinions and sentiments it expressed, agreed with the most extreme of the Republicans. The reason it created so great a sensation, was, that that paper was generally supposed to convey the sentiments of Mr. Hayes. When the paper reached Washington the following afternoon, it was quickly passed round through the House of Representatives, and great excitement immediately ensued. A recess was promptly voted, and for a while it seemed evident that the House would refuse to proceed further with the count of the Electoral votes. It was generally agreed, even among the conservative class of Democrats, that violence would be excusable, if its purpose was to prevent the inauguration as President, of a person whose Southern policy was foreshadowed in that article. The Republicans became uneasy, and Stanley Matthews, Chas. Foster and Gov. Dennison, joined in a telegram from Washington, making inquiry how the article came to be published, and the answer came in two telegrams as follows:

COLUMBUS, Feb. 23, 1877.

TO HON. STANLEY MATTHEWS, Washington, D. C.: The article on Louisiana affairs in the State Journal yesterday was originally a communication lying in the office and was used by the young men in charge of the office in the absence, by severe illness, of Gen. Conley. Gov. Hayes is no way responsible.

C. H. GROSVENOR,
Speaker House of Representatives.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 23, 1877.

General Conley has been very sick for a week past. He is not permitted to see or talk to any one, and your dispatch cannot be shown to him. He is not allowed even to read anything that appears in the State Journal. The article in the Journal of Thursday on Louisiana affairs was not written by him. Governor Hayes neither inspired nor wrote it, nor did he hear of it until his attention was called to it by your dispatch from Washington.

A. W. FRANCISCO,
Associate proprietor of State Journal.

The offensive article has been taken up by the violent Democratic papers and reproduced, with comments attributing it to Mr. Hayes, whereas it is nothing more than the effusion of some unknown person, who wanted to give himself an airing through the newspapers.

The Supreme Court of the United States has affirmed the decision of the courts in Wisconsin, sustaining "The Potter Law." This was the act of the Wisconsin legislature, fixing the rates of freight and fare on the railways of the State, by an elaborate schedule of classification, and prohibiting discrimination against places or individuals. The corporations resisted the law, on the ground that the legislature had not constitutional power to pass such laws. The Supreme Court decides against the corporations, holding that the States have the right to regulate the rates of freight and fare on all roads within their boundaries. The decision was announced on the 1st instant, the opinion being delivered by Chief Justice Waite, and all the justices, except Mr. Justice Field, concurring. This is a victory of the people and of the right. The highest court of the land has now sustained the doctrine upon which the Independents made their fight against the two political parties three years ago. But the decision did not come until after the politicians were forced, by the independent people, to abandon their alliance with the corporations. Whether the effect of this decision will be to cause the corporations to confine themselves to their legitimate business, letting politics alone, or whether it will be to set them to work to control the legislative nominations, remains to be seen. Happily in Oregon, the railways have ceased to be party machines since the retirement of Mr. Holladay from their management. It will be their safety to remain out of the political field.

If a writer who inquires how it is that Congress can not go behind the returns of a State in determining who are Presidential electors, is not being a national matter, the St. Paul Pioneer Press replies:

By the Constitution all that concerns the manner of appointing Presidential electors is expressly reserved to the State. "Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof shall direct," a number of electors, &c." The appointment of electors is regulated therefore, wholly by State law, and Congress has nothing whatever to do with the manner of their appointment. Those are the true and lawful electors whom the State designates as such, and the Constitution knows no other. They become Federal officers, we suppose, when they assemble to discharge the functions imposed upon them by the Constitution, and then, but not till then, they become subject to federal law.

This is the old and has been the universally accepted reading of the Constitution till now. Some time ago we published a bill which passed both houses of Congress in 1800 for deciding disputes in counting the vote of electors. This bill was drawn by John Marshall, afterwards Chief Justice of the United States and the greatest jurist who ever sat on the Supreme Bench. This bill of 1800, like the Arbitration bill, referred all disputes to a Grand Committee—a joint committee of both houses, with the Chief Justice as an umpire—and it provided that "the committee should have power to examine into all disputes relative to the election of President and Vice President other than such as might relate to the number of votes by which the electors may have been appointed." That is to say at that early day it was held by Congress that it had no power to enter into an inquiry as to what electors were chosen by the popular vote, but must accept the decision of the State as final.

THE MAGAZINES.—Scribner's Monthly for March presents an interesting table of contents. The first article is "The New York Aquarium," with beautiful illustrations. Dr. Holland's novel "Nicholas Minturn" is continued. The promised article on Princeton College, with the portrait of Dr. McCosh, appears, and is worth a year's subscription. The editorial work, it is needless to say, is excellent.

St. Nicholas is still St. Nicholas, and that is saying all that need be said. The frontispiece of the March number is a beautiful picture, almost telling by itself the story it is intended to illustrate. Young folk's literature is already an established institution, and St. Nicholas is its best representative.

Gen. Devens, the nominee of the President for Attorney General was the Superior Court, not the Supreme Court, of Massachusetts, as the types made us say yesterday morning.

Will the writer of the letter signed "Public Welfare," please send us his name?"

Motion day.

Cold and miserable.

Steamer goes at 6 o'clock A. M.

Last night of the Jubilee Singers.

Very large list of passengers on the Elder.

The Stark-street ferry now runs without a cable.

The grand jury finds fault with the manner in which the county poor farm is managed.

"J. A." received some twenty answers in two days to an advertisement—the fruits of advertising in the "oldest."

In the Police Court yesterday morning Dan Owens, a constitutional old bum, got 25 days, and James Cochlan $10 for abusive language.

The estate left by the late Geo. W. Vaughn is estimated to be worth $50,000. Miss Libbie Vaughn, his daughter, is sole heir to the property.

Mrs. Hollobaugh was suddenly prostrated Thursday evening while attending the First Presbyterian church, with an attack of heart disease. We are pleased to state that the lady is recovering.

Mr. L. R. Patton, for many months connected with Clarke & Henderson, has, we learn, taken the position of chief salesman with Mrs. L. Ach, of the City of Paris store. He will assume his duties on Wednesday, Mrs. Ach having gone to San Francisco to day to purchase new stock.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Rev. Mr. Acton will preach at the Congregational church to-morrow at 11 o'clock. Communion service will be held at the conclusion of the sermon. Evening service will be omitted.

OREGON BIBLE SOCIETY.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THIS SOCIETY—REPORTS, ELECTION OF OFFICERS, ETC.

Last Wednesday the annual meeting of the Oregon Bible Society was held at the First Presbyterian Church in Portland.

Gen. E. B. Babbitt, the Secretary, submitted the following

REPORT,

Which was read and placed on file:

Brethren—Friends of the Bible: We are happy to greet you on our assembling to celebrate the Twenty-ninth Anniversary of our "Oregon Bible Society."

In accordance with our custom, we desire now to lay before you, in brief form, a report of the work of the society during the past year.

If in scattering the good seed over our vast field, large portions of which are sparsely settled, we have not accomplished all which could have been desired; the results have been such as greatly to encourage a continued effort under the same great fostering care hitherto vouchsafed us, upon which we confidently rely for success in the future, as in the past.

And now we respectfully invite your attention while we present a view of the main points of interest in our work of the year.

Some items from our Depositary show that at the commencement of the year, we had in our Depositary,

The colporteur agency system has not been resorted to during the past year, and yet through the commendable efforts of the several branches and a few local agents, the total sales and donations of Bibles has been nearly $400 greater in value than in the year preceding. This increase of sales may also be accounted for in part by a gradual increase of settlers within our field, and more especially by the efficient agency of Rev. Mr. Hetzler, district superintendent of the American Bible Society, who, in addition to his legitimate duties for the parent society, has rendered much valuable and gratuitous service in the Bible work of our Society in accordance with the request and sanction of the committee of managers.

Voluntary service of colporteurs to any considerable extent can hardly be expected in the large and thinly settled districts; but may be had to some extent in the cities and towns, and in the ensuing year your committee may find it expedient to employ to some degree both hired and voluntary service in prosecuting its work.

Regular meetings of your committee for the transaction of business, are held on the first Wednesday evening of each month.

We report as last year, 17 Branch Societies, including a small agency at Fort Colville.

In closing our report, we would invoke the Divine blessing upon the labors of the past, and seek His guidance and supervision in all matters pertaining to the work of the future. In all of which we hope for the prayerful sympathy and co-operation of every friend of God's Word.

E. B. BABBITT,
Secretary Or. B. Society.

After the transaction of other business connected with the Bible cause, the society adjourned to meet at the Taylor street M. E. church, to-morrow (Sunday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

"I'll Sing along my Heavenly Way."—Jubilees.

See the New White Shuttle Machine, the greatest invention of the country. Office, 123 First street.

"We'll hab a little shout when we git on de Island."—Jubilees.

To be beautiful, graceful, healthful and comfortable, wear Dr. Warner's corset. Third street near Morrison.

The neatest thing out for a schoolboy is "Smith's Scholar's Companion;" price 35 cents. J. K. Gill & Co. sold a gross of them during Christmas week, and have just received another large lot of them.

"General Roll Call."—Jubilees.

Dr. Halbruner's RHEUMATIC LINIMENT is a sure cure for RHEUMATISM, SORE THROAT, ACHES, PAINS, CHILBLAINS, etc. It can be had at the Doctor's office until he has it ready for the market. The Doctor will send a bottle by express, or a box of his Salve by postoffice. Price, 50 cents each, expressage extra.

The Singer Manufacturing Co. report their sales for the year 1876 at 262,316 Machines, being an excess of 12,464 machines over their sales of 1875.

Mrs. B. A. Owens, M.D., Office and residence, east side First street, between Yamhill and Taylor. Special attention given to Women and Children's complaints. Also gives Medicated Vapor Baths, combined with Electricity, in treating Rheumatism and Chronic Diseases.

SUCCESS IT IS.

Under date of March 9th our Eugene correspondent sends the following items:

The county court has been in session during the week past.

Mr. J. W. Parks the county assessor, has commenced work.

Camilla Urso is expected here on the 19th of the present month.

H. C. Owen, a former resident of this place, but now of California, is in town visiting friends.

J. B. Underwood and G. B. Dorris will be the candidates for Mayor at our next city election.

Mr. W. A. Alexander, a young typo of our city, was married to Miss Jennie Roach Tuesday last.

E. J. McClanahan was appointed ward supervisor for South Eugene district, and St. John Skinner for the North.

The Lane county teachers' institute will meet at Junction City on the 26th of this month and continue until the 30th.

Mr. G. W. Sankey held one of his most popular concerts Wednesday night last. Most of the songs were sung with good effect, and especially the chorus of the closing piece was well rendered.

The County Court appointed Mr. G. J. Buys, the editor of the Guard, justice of the peace, vice Joseph Ogle, resigned. This appointment is a good one; and about the only good one the present court can be credited with.

The Laurean and Eutaxian literary societies gave a very creditable entertainment at Lane's hall on last Saturday evening, to a crowded house. The salutatory by Mr. J. L. Workman and the closing address by Miss Mary Hill, were a credit to the authors and an honor to the institution to which they belong. The society paper, edited and read by Miss Annie Underwood, was a literary treat to the audience; and the recitations by Miss Ina Condon and Mr. C. M. Hill, and the comic oration by Mr. C. E. Bryant, were remarkably good.

CATHOLIC ITEMS.

The following religious notes we condense from the Sentinel:

Vespers will commence at the Cathedral at 7½ on Sunday evenings until further notice.

The Catholics who reside in the vicinity of Union City, Union county, contemplate the erection of a church in Union next summer.

Rev. Edward Herman will celebrate the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at the residence of Mr. Richard Kennedy, on the 18th. Passion Sunday.

The Catholics of Baker City contemplate at an early day, to erect a school for boys on some land recently purchased with that object in view.

Father Croquet of Grand Ronde Indian agency, is erecting a large building for the use of the Sisters and their increasing number of Indian scholars.

We regret to learn through Maj. Mallet, Indian agent, at Tulalip, who is at present sojourning in the city, that Father Chirouse, O. M. I., the veteran missionary of that agency, is suffering from a severe attack of neuralgia.

OREGON.

Salem has a new brass band organized, with first-class talent in it.

From the Corvallis Gazette we learn that Eva, daughter of Dr. J. R. Bayley, aged about 10 years, met with a painful accident at the skating carnival, last Saturday evening, by a fall, causing what is known as a "fast fracture" of the arm between the wrist and the elbow. She is getting along nicely.

An adjourned meeting of the Salem Academy of Medicine will be held on the 15th instant for the purpose of considering the diphtheria epidemic. The pathology of the disease will be presented in a short and concise form by one of the members, to be followed by discussion. The complications will then be considered, the nature of the present epidemic, the sequels, the treatment, and each part being examined in detail as presented.

Says the Albany Democrat: A little Englishman by the name of Baker, who has been cutting cordwood for John Hutchinson near this city during the past year, has had a "streak of luck." A few days ago he received word from his old home that he had fallen heir to an estate worth about £15,000. Accompanying this letter was a draft for quite a sum of money with which to pay his expenses back to "hold Hengland." He will start back on the next steamer, and our city calaboose, which he occupied on several occasions, will know him no more.

Every prospect pleases, and yet Fabre pursues his course as a skater.

"The Old Sexton."—Jubilees.

Masquerade suits and trimmings at J. Harris & Son's.

The Medical Institute of Dr. W. L. Adams, corner of First and Salmon streets, will be removed to Hood river in a few months. Till then chronic diseases of men and women will be treated in Portland as usual. An accomplished lady assistant to give baths to ladies and assist in their treatment always in the office.

The New White Shuttle Sewing Machine is the result of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of sewing machines.

"De Gospel Ship."—Jubilees.

Worsted reduced to fifteen cents per ounce at Mrs. Charles Tichnor's.

For good kid gauntlets at $1 a pair, go to the Emporium of Fashion.

Masquerade costumes for rent cheap, and all kinds of masks, at Mrs. Charles Tichenor's.

Captains and pilots will note the fact that Peter Wilhelm has fitted up two rooms for their especial use at the Fountain, corner Ash and First streets. Number of English papers on file, including the London Daily Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

The ladies who wear Dr. Warner's health corset step along as lightly as gazelles and enjoy perfect freedom in every movement. Third street near Morrison.

The Bonanza mine-owners claim new developments, but will not let the public know. The proprietors of Noble Whisky favor a different plan, and having a good thing, don't object to giving it to the public.

Portland Steam Scouring Mills Scour and re-nap Blankets; scour and top-dye Mattresses; scour Fly and Ingrain Carpets; Bronze Carpets threshed, cleansed and spots removed. Leave orders at Weeks & Morgan's and Powers' Furniture Store.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians or sold by druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Agents, Crane & Brigham, Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco.

NOTICE.

The undersigned in taking leave of Portland returns his sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that has been bestowed, and would bespeak for his successors a continuance of the same.

SWORN STATEMENT
OF A
BOSTON DRUGGIST.

Gentlemen,—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had buzzing in the head, pains across the temple, dizzy spells, weak and painful eyes, swollen and ulcerated tonsils, hard and constant cough, severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my head and throat that I could not keep them free. Frequently at night I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then have recourse to every means in my power to dislodge the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my tonsils were ulcerated and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but at his request postponed it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the poisonous matter dropping down from my head had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly,—a deep, hard cough. Meanwhile my system began to show the effects of this disease, so that I lost flesh, grew pale, and showed every symptom of an early death by consumption. When matters had reached this stage, or about six months ago, I began the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. The first dose seemed to clear my head as I had not known it to do for years. It seemed gradually to arrest the discharges. It stopped my cough in three days. By using it as a gargle I soon reduced the inflammation and swelling of my tonsils, so that they soon ceased to trouble me. The sorenes across my chest disappeared, the buzzing noises in my head ceased, my senses of hearing and of seeing were completely restored, and every symptom of disease that had reduced me to the verge of the grave disappeared by the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

I have been thus explicit because, as a druggist, I have seen a great deal of suffering from Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

I am familiar with the treatment of Catarrh as practised by the best physicians, and have consulted the most eminent about my case. I have used every kind of remedy and apparatus that have appeared during a period of six years past, and have, while following their use, taken great care of my general health, but obtained no relief or encouragement from any of them.

Since curing myself with SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, I have recommended it in over one hundred cases without a single case of failure, and have in numerous instances received wholesale orders from parties to whom I have sold one bottle. This is the only patent medicine I have ever recommended, never having believed in them before, although constantly engaged in their sale.

Very gratefully yours,
GEORGE F. DINSMORE.

BOSTON, Feb. 28, 1875.

SUFFOLK, ss. Feb. 28, 1875.

Then personally appeared the said George F. Dinsmore, and made oath that the foregoing statement by him subscribed is true.

Before me, SETH J. THOMAS,
Justice of the Peace.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENT.

Since the above statement was made I have been rapidly improving in health. I have had no return of the disagreeable symptoms that attended my former sickness, and although exposed from time to time with severe colds incidental to the sudden changes in our climate, they have not been sufficient to bring on a return of the disease. My general health has been excellent. I have gained twenty-five pounds and consider myself entirely recovered from a disease that a year ago seemed likely to totally undermine my constitution. Since last February I have consulted with a great many afflicted with Catarrh, and in the hundreds of cases in which I have sold it I have never seen an instance sufficient to shake the confidence I feel in Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh.

OCTOBER 26, 1875. GEORGE F. DINSMORE.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

For the immediate relief and permanent cure of many forms of Paralysis, Epilepsy or Fits, and Nervous and Involuntary Muscular Action,

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER

by rallying the nervous forces, have proved successful when every other known remedy has failed.

"Just the Thing."

Messrs. Weeks & Potter, Gentlemen—Please find enclosed 50 cents, for which send me two COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS. They seem to be just the thing for nervous complaints, of those who use them testify. I do not use them myself, but seeing your advertisement, and knowing that some of my neighbors were suffering from various nervous and painful diseases, I prevailed upon them to try the VOLTAIC PLASTERS, and thus far they have proved very satisfactory. Please send me your lowest rates by the dozen. Very respectfully,

O. W. BOSWICK.

MT. STERLING, O., July 20, 1876.

"I Want More."

Messrs. Weeks & Potter, Gentlemen—Please send by mail one dozen COLLINS VOLTAIC PLASTERS. The one I sent for did me so much good that I want more to sell beside using them. Enclosed find $2 25. Address,

MY PERIL AND ESCAPE.

I was a very bold and fearless girl, and my brothers and sisters often dared me to go into lonely places in the dark, or do perilous feats of various kinds, which challenges I never refused. Often they set out to play tricks on me, but it usually happened they fell into their own traps, while I performed my part in safety.

We lived in a large old house, built of English oak, and bearing its nearly two centuries very lightly. It opened to the south, and the two large parlors looked to the east and west. The dining hall and spacious kitchen formed the square of the house, while at the west and back was another large room, sometimes called the great porch. There were three stairways leading to the upper rooms and a garret, whose ample space was broken only by the great chimney in the center.

We had a gay and lively house, and were used to a great deal of company and visitors, for my parents were greatly given to the old-fashioned virtue of hospitality. The humblest wayfarer coming in at the porch was entertained kindly and bidden God speed, as well as the guest whose elegant carriage and span drove around to the front door on the southern side.

It was a summer day, and warm, bright and beautiful. The morning promised a lovely day. Just after our early breakfast, a merry party came riding down the lane in carriages and on horseback, calling joyously for my father and mother to accompany them on a pleasure trip. They were accustomed to this mode of impromptu festivity, and gayly answered that they would soon be ready. It was only the day before that my father had returned from the Australian gold-fields, and had brought with him a bag of gold. I knew he had this, for I had seen him the night before counting some of it, and putting some of it into another bag.

Thomas brought the chaise to the door. Father's favorite black horse, whose coat looked like lustrous velvet, and who stepped so proudly, was pawing the ground impatiently as he appeared. He nodded to my beautiful mother, and I stood looking on with childish pleasure at her pearly and rich dress, that so became her.

I hastened indoors again to see them wind down the private way that led through our extensive grounds, and half wished I were old enough to go with them. Hearing a slight noise, turned and saw a stranger, a figure not unusual, for a bundle hung on a stick.

He was leaning on the stone wall, and apparently looking after the carriages. He came forward in a moment, and asked if he might sit down and rest, and if I would kindly give him something to eat. Of course I said yes and with light steps went before him, substantial lunch and cheese, which he came into the kitchen to eat. Betsey and Hannah were busy, hurrying to finish their work, for they were going out to tea and to spend the evening. They joked gayly about their visit, paying little attention to the stranger, who was quickly eating. His head was bald on the top, and the thinness hair brushed up from behind over it.

He had prominent ears, low forehead and large mouth, with a receding chin, where grew a stubby beard of grizzly black, like his hair. I did not know why I observed all this, or his eyes, small and set under grayish brows, that seemed to glance furtively about him. His voice was harsh and croaking, and had startled me when he first addressed me.

We were used to strollers of all kinds, as I have said. Perhaps I was mentally conscious of his repulsiveness with my father's noble and dignified features. He seemed to me very ugly. I was glad when he had finished his meal and risen to go. He asked permission to light his pipe, which was readily granted. He went out directly, passing accidentally through the dining room, and out of the great hall, where he lingered for a moment or two. He had thanked me civilly enough for his breakfast, but the girls laughed and nodded as he went out, and said they should think I had picked up a raven.

All that long, bright day I was busy and happy in the flower-garden, or sewing, or singing, and when the girls left, looking very cheerful at their half holiday, I wished them a merry time, and told them not to hasten home, for Thomas should come for them. I expected my father and mother soon after 8 o'clock, and I told Thomas to be at the right gate about that time, as they would soon be home, and it looked a little like rain. Heavy clouds were gathering in the west, and the thunder rumbled sullenly. He took the covered wagon and old gray, and, before he stepped in, said:

"Miss Ann, I think you had better fasten the doors, as you may be all alone for a short time if I go so soon. Would you not rather that I should wait till your father comes?"

"Oh, no, Thomas; I don't mind being alone in the least, and you ought to go, lest it should rain hard, for it is more than two miles to ride, and they may not like to drive in a minute. I expect father and mother every moment. Don't wait."

So Thomas left, and the wagon rattled merrily up the lane. I bolted the doors, because he had told me to, for otherwise I would not have thought of it. It grew dark rapidly, and the thunder began to roll heavily, while the wind rose, and the flashes of lightning grew more vivid as I went to the east parlor, and looked out to the south, but the sudden lighting up of the sky, and the falling darkness did not interest me long. I could not see out very well, either, as the honeysuckles covered the windows. The large mirror reflected me as I turned away to cross the room, and I stopped a moment with a natural vanity, for I was young and fair enough to look upon.

I let all my hair fall loose, and wound it in long, shining, brown curls over my fingers. It certainly did look handsome, for it was very thick, and fell below my waist, and curled almost of itself as it fell. There came a great flash of lightning, and I saw distinctly reflected in the glass a face looking in at the window. It was an ancient of terror, but I neither screamed nor moved. The face could not see my face, and I kept the body still, and rolled the long, shining rings off my cold, white fingers. It was an ugly face, and I recognized it. I had seen it that morning, and I knew what lay before me. I prayed inwardly a brief prayer for help.

Turning from the glass, I went steadily toward a table that stood near the window, and on which I had left my candle. I moved steadily as usual, and took up the water pitcher and looked in, then took my candle and went towards the kitchen. The lightning kept flashing, but the face did not come again. I dropped my candle on the kitchen hearth and put my foot on the wick. I set down the pitcher on the dresser, and with soft, light footfall, hastened through the west room up the front stairs, into my father's chamber, and softly closed and bolted the door at the head of the stairs. I unlocked his box, took out both the bags of gold, relocked it, and made my way into the great chamber.

I heard voices; I heard the doors tried below. I knew it was not my father. I dared not tremble nor grow faint. I went through that room and two others to the garret stairs. I hardly breathed. I heard a window pushed up; more than one person came in at it. I felt about me in the dark. There was a sliding panel in the inside of the stairway. I pushed it, and it rolled back. I entered into a long closet under the stairs, and slid the panel carefully into its place. I felt cautiously to see if all was safe. I pulled my dress close about me lest it might be caught, and the door not closed tightly. Then I waited. I heard steps coming up the stairs. I heard a search through all the rooms below. My heart beat till I thought that each bound must be audible, heard voices—one voice, the Raven's. I knew that harsh croak. It told me nothing. The face had revealed all to me. The man must have learned in some unaccountable way of the bag of gold, and learned too when here in the morning that I was to be alone. It was all plain to me now. He had returned and had brought accomplices. My peril was terribly imminent. Very soon the steps and voices came my way. I could distinguish plainly the words that were spoken.

"Drat her! she must have seen you."

"No matter; we'll split the box open with this ax."

I knew the ax was in the little porch. Thomas had set it in when he had done chopping the brush, as it looked like rain.

I heard the steps and voices move away, a dull, crashing sound, and then stifled, angry tones. I knew they had opened the box, and found nothing but the papers. I knew they would now search for me. I heard them as they looked into every room and closet, and came up the stairs separate. They all met at the foot of the garret stairs. A thick board was between us. I thanked God that the panel was close shut. I knew it; for no ray of light came through.

"She must be up here," said the Raven, "and we'll soon have her."

"I'll warrant she is here, and I'll wring her neck if she makes a noise about it."

But the thorough search was ended, and the voices grew very angry and full of frightful oaths and threatenings. They sat down on the garret stairs to hold a parley. A spider ran across my face. A spider puts me in mortal fear. It was with a great effort that I kept from screaming.

"Come," croaked the Raven, "let us go and get the silver; that will be something—that will be something."

Curse the silver. It's the gold I've come for, and I'll burn the house if I don't find the girl! So let her look out!"

A cold perspiration. Would they perform their threat?

"Good! then the rats will squeak. Down drop the money bags, and we'll choke the girl to make her dumb."

"Hold your noise. The old man will be coming home. We'll be caught here. Be quick."

"Who cares for him! He's only one; a bludgeon will give him a handy little headache as he comes in."

"And his wife?"

They spoke low, hideous words that made my flesh creep. I almost was ready to call aloud, to open the panel, to give them the gold, and bid them go. They got up, and the steps and voices went down. It was horrible there in the dark. I was stifling; I moved the panel slightly. No light entered. I slid it softly back. My resolution was taken. I would get out of the house, run down the road and meet my father. I would save him. I left the gold in the closet, shutting it in close. I stole down two steps into the chamber below. I knew there was a window open there. I crept across the room, listening keenly. I lifted myself cautiously on the window ledge and caught a branch of the cherry tree which grew close to the house. Swinging myself lightly out, I hastily descended the trunk of the tree, and found myself on the ground, safe.

No; the lightning flash betrayed me. The Raven's voice shrieked hoarsely:

"There she goes! Catch her! Quick! This way!"

Out of the front door came the pursuers, hardly ten feet from me. I dashed toward the thick shrubbery to throw them off the track. Fortunately I knew the way, every step of it. They were guided solely by the sound and flashing light.

"Shoot her by the next flash?" cried one.

My flying feet struck loose boards. I was passing directly over an old, unused well very deep, and it gave back a hollow, resonant sound. Almost the next moment I heard a crash, the report of a pistol, a heavy fall, oaths and a deep groan. Shuddering, I sped on through the garden, up toward the cider press, over the stone wall, down the hollow, up the hillside, over the fields. No steps followed; no voices shouted after me. I ran down to the second bars and let them down. It began to rain a few great drops, then fast, then it poured. I was wet to the skin. I ran on, for I heard advancing wheels coming rapidly; I stood in the road and cried: "Father! father!" The chaise stopped. Another chaise behind stopped also. It was our next neighbor's, who lived a quarter of a mile further on.

"Ann, my child. Good heavens! What is the matter! What has happened?"

I told the whole in a few word, amid eager exclamations of joy at my safety, of surprise, even of anger, because Thomas had left me alone.

"Don't blame him, father, I insisted on his going."

A hurried consultation took place. My father was very brave. Our neighbor was very timid. He proposed going on to his house and returning with weapons. In the meantime I had got into the chaise and crouched down at my mother's feet, who was half crying, and wholly thankful to feel me there.

We rode on, and came to our gates under the willows. There were lights in the house, but all was still. Nothing moved. My father put the reins in my mother's hand, and opened the other gate that led up the lane.

"Will you go home with Nathan?" said he.

"And leave you here? No."

"Take your wife home, Nathan, if you will, and come back."

"We will stay by you."

"Let us reconnoitre then, a little."

They got out, leaving us sitting still. The rain fell less heavily. They got something that would do for weapons from the tool-house. They went all around the house—all was quiet. They went in. We sat still, speaking few words, my hand clasped in my mother's and my frame trembling with fright.

"Thomas is coming!" I exclaimed, eagerly. "I hear the wheels."

We called to him as he came to the gate, for he could not see us. He drove through and called out:

"What is the matter?"

We told him sufficiently, and he left Betsy and Hannah, and went in at once, with only the heavy whip. We did not wait long. Nathan came out directly.

"What have you found? Who is there?"

"Nothing. Nobody."

"Are they all gone?"

"Yes, with some of the silver and a few things. We don't know what yet."

The horses were put under the shed, and we all went in. Father said calmly:

"We will take a lantern, Thomas, and look around out of doors a little."

I knew they would go to the old well. I stood and looked out of the window and saw the gleam of the lantern as it moved. In a very few minutes they came back.

"One of them is dead," said my father, "and the other lies at the bottom and groans. The third has escaped."

They laid boards across some barrels in the shed, and brought up the dead man and laid him on them. His comrade, who fell in the well, had shot him through the head as he plunged through the boards. His ugly face was uglier. It was the Raven. That night my father's prayers were very solemn, and his embrace was close as he gave me my good-night kiss.

The robber in the well was bruised, but not seriously hurt. The law took him to punishment. The third escaped. I was never left at home again alone.

Liverpool Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, March 9.—Breadstuffs firm; except corn, which is dull. Corn—24s@24s 3d for new mixed western; 24s 6d@25s 9d for old. Wheat—10s @10s 3d for average California white; 10s 8d@11s for club.

The leading grain circulars says there is but little change in British markets, which generally ruled low, although appearing rather firm as the week proceeded. Millers have been sluggish, but a good many cargoes off the coast found buyers, several being for the continent, on spot, with little offering from recent large arrivals. The late decline has been arrested and prices are better than on Tuesday, but maize is again dearer. Fresh arrivals of wheat, maize and flour are 180,000 qrs for this market to-day. There is a good consumptive demand for wheat, while realizing an advance of fully 2d per cental; red is held for a penny more, which checks sales. Flour is steady but unimproved. Corn is in moderate request at 3d per quarter decline.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Wool quiet and firm; supply light. Colorado washed, 20@28c; unwashed, 16@25; extra and merino pulled, 36@42; No. 1 and super pulled, 30@36c; Texas fine and medium, 25@33c; coarse, 18@22c.
